TALK OF PACT AT SEA PARLEY IS ABANDONED

British, French Experts Start Examination of Building Programs.

SESSIONS ATTENDED BY U. S. 'OBSERVERS'

FIVE THINGS LISTED AS BRIAND'S GOALS

Hoover-MacDonald Figures Are Admitted to Be Tentative Only.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Pact talk, whether of consultative agreements with America or European mutual guarantees without her, collapsed like a pricked balloon today following Foreign Minister Briand's failure over the week-end to make headway with Premier MacDonald and Secretary of State Stimson.

In its place examination of the British and French building programs was begun by British and French naval experts with American "observers" sitting in, a significant and official designation. This examination will be continued tomorrow.

The sensation of the day was a lengthy and circumstantial story circulated in conference circles to the effect that the United States and Japan had reached agreement. The story is denied on the highest authority. The United States has not moved from her insistence that she will build eighteen big cruisers, although only fifteen may be in the water in 1936, and that Japan must not add to her present force of twelve of these ships within the life of the treaty.

Slight Response Noted.

It is accurate, however, to say that in the conversations between Senator Reed and Ambassador Matsudaira, which continued today, there has been a slight drawing together. The Americans, although they will insist on the right to build as many 8-inch-gun cruisers of more than 7,500 tons as they like with the limitation on this category, may respond to the Japanese suggestion that they build only five or six of these vessels by showing Japan their building plans.

This may mean, in effect, that all of those cruisers now planned will not be built before 1936 and in this sense a compromise may be nearer, while on submarines and even on the vexed question of Japan's claim to 70 per cent plans are under discussion that may conceivably, though by no means certainly, satisfy both sides.

The Japanese question, however, is a side issue to the main topic of discussion, which is M. Briand's attitude and what he will do now that he has failed to get a guarantee of security at sea for France. Possibly he may reply to the reported challenge of Great Britain and America to put his ideas on paper. Almost certainly, unless recalled by Premier Tardieu, he will defend the French attitude in a set speech at a plenary session at the end of the week.

Briand Hopes For Five Things.

M. Briand, however, it is learned authoritatively tonight, hopes for only five things out of this conference and they are these:

1. Agreement on a method of limitation on the basis of a compromise between global tonnage and by categories, which would be useful in future at Geneva.

2. A humanization agreement on the use of submarines.

3. Destruction of the "humiliating" per cent of 1.67 imposed on France against 5 for Great Britain and 3 for Japan at the Washington conference. Even though referring only to capital ships, this still rankles in French minds.

4. Possible retardation in present construction programs based on the willingness of all nations not to build as fast as they now plan, which, if adopted, would postpone the date on which Anglo-American parity would be achieved.

5. Acceptance by all five powers of a preamble to a treaty or a declaration or whatever is the final act of this conference expressing the unthinkability of war and as much else as M. Briand can persuade Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Stimson to say about possible consultation in an emergency or reprobation of peacebreakers.

Embargo Question Foreseen.

Another thought thrown out on behalf of the French foreign minister was that in the next five years discussion between Great Britain and the United States on freedom of the seas and sea law will be bound to arise, and that when it does, the question of blockade rights will be bound to bring up the use of em-

Taliaferro Elected Bank Vice President

Riggs National Chooses District Official for Berth.

Election of District Commissioner Sidney F. Taliaferro as a vice president of the Riggs National Bank, effective as of retirement from his present office March 31, was announced yesterday by President Robert V. Fleming of that bank, following the regular monthly meeting of its board of directors.

President Fleming said that in his prospective position, Mr. Taliaferro would assist Frank J. Hogan, general counsel, and himself in the conduct of the affairs of the trust department of the bank, this step having been taken in view of the steady growth of this part of the bank's service.

Mr. Taliaferro made the following statement:

"My plans to reopen offices for private practice of law have been abandoned to become a vice president of the Riggs National Bank, where I will devote myself principally to the work of the trust department.

"It is with a great deal of satisfaction that I will become identified with this splendid institution which is constantly increasing its scope of usefulness in Washington and in its international connections."

Mr. Taliaferro is a lawyer and was born in Salem, Roanoke County, Va., March 4, 1885, coming to this city in 1899 in securing his first work in a hardware store. He was graduated from Georgetown Law School in 1913, with degrees of LL.B. and M.P.L. Beginning practice immediately, much of his time was devoted to representing steam and electric railways. From 1919 to 1923, he was assistant professor of law at Georgetown.

On December 4, 1926, he was appointed a District Commissioner by President Coolidge to succeed Cuno H. Rudolph, who resigned to reenter private business. His appointment was confirmed by the Senate February 4, 1927.

Mr. Taliaferro is a member of the board of directors of Columbia Hospital, the American and District Bar Associations, International Society of Law, Italy-American, Southern, and Columbia Historical Societies and Delta Chi Fraternity. He also belongs to the Cosmos, Congressional Country, Manor and Lawyers Clubs.

HOOVER URGES EXPANSION AID IN SCOUT PLEA

Exhorts All to Support $10,000,000 Fund Campaign.

MOVEMENT LAUDED AS HELP TO NATION

President Breaks Rigid Official Mourning Observance.

36 STATE GROUPS ARE REPRESENTED

Youth of Country Is Called Hope of Future; Need of Safeguards Cited.

Characterizing the boy and his sister as the "most precious possession of the American home," President Hoover last night joined more than 400 business and professional men from 36 States in supporting plans for a $10,000,000 fund for expansion of the Boy Scout movement. The President spoke at a banquet in the Willard Hotel in celebration of the twentieth anniversary of Scout work in America.

Pausing to explain why he had broken his rigidly observed period of mourning, Mr. Hoover said that "William Howard Taft, whose death casts a shadow upon us, would have wished us to carry on the work of an organization of which he was the first honorary president."

The Chief Executive pointed to the Boy Scout movement as one through which parents might solve the problem of supplying worthwhile recreation for their sons, and proper training for citizenship.

Youth in Plastic Period.

"Youth is in the plastic period when indelible impressions must be made if we are to continue a successful democracy," he said. "We assure ourselves that the cure of illiteracy and the fundamentals of education should be the three R's—reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic. To this we must add one more R and that is responsibility—responsibility to the community—if we are not to have illiteracy in government."

The President arrived early and remained throughout the program, which included addresses by Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, Walter W. Head, president of the Boy Scouts; Dr. James E. West, chief Scout executive, and Mortimer L. Schiff, vice president and international commissioner of the Scout movement.

As Mr. Hoover and his party departed to a martial air by the Marine Corps Orchestra, a troop of local Scouts stood at attention along the entrance corridor.

Declaring that boys of the present day have been deprived of many wholesome recreations offered those of

TAFT TO BE LAID TO REST TODAY IN ARLINGTON CEMETERY WITH THOSE WHO SERVED NATION

SIMPLICITY TO MARK SERVICES AT CHURCH

Distinguished Company of Officials Will Pay Last Honor.

HOUSE AND SENATE ADJOURNED FOR DAY

Justices of Supreme Court and President to Follow Body to Grave.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The body of William Howard Taft lay in the flower-banked serenity of his Wyoming avenue home yesterday, while that which is immortal took council with Marshall, Taney, White, Wilson and others of this Nation's illustrious jurists.

Today will be written another story in state funerals which Washington has come so well to know as one by one these men go. It seems still fresh in the memory that first Harding and then Wilson were borne away, and now Mr. Taft, whose ambitions were checked by the one and gratified by the other, is to be honored, to be buried in the same manner as were they, the only variations being to meet the desires of the families of the three men.

Mr. Taft, his features again lighted with the suggestion of that happy smile now that death has stilled all pain and healed his body ailments, is to be taken first to the Capitol this morning at 9 o'clock and remain there under the Capitol dome for three hours in the keeping of the sailors, soldiers and marines and the populace.

Hallowed by Those Before.

It was there that the body of Harding rested before being borne back to Marion, and so did the bodies of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley before their home towns were permitted to claim them. It was there, too, that a nameless soldier, home from the wars, rested while selfish peoples everywhere swore solemnly that they would never fight again.

Mr. Taft is to lie in death, too, with this young man, with him and the others of the living dead on an Arlington hillside; because he was a soldier himself, the commander-in-chief of all the Nation's military for four years and also Secretary of War. He will sleep quite a distance away but in the same distinguished fold with William Jennings Bryan, that apostle of peace, that crusader whom Mr. Taft stopped in 1908 and who went to Arlington, when he died, by virtue of having been a colonel.

Everywhere the military will accompany him, a battalion of artillery, of infantry, a squadron of cavalry, the marines and the bluejackets, that rollicking martial company that attended him up Pennsylvania Avenue that snow-beaten day of 1909. It will attend him now in sombre contrast to that gay parade. This time it will be at the slow step and with muffled drums.

Pealing of Bells to Greet Cortege.

First it will escort him to the Capitol and later to All Souls Church at Sixteenth and Harvard where at 2 o'clock most simple funeral services will be held.

There the distinguished company, a company augmented by high men of affairs whose center of activity is away from Washington—in Ohio, New York and other States—will be joined by the President.

The pealing of bells will greet the cortege as it approaches the church and then the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce will receive the procession at the door. There will be no eulogies of this man whose life was a voluminous eulogy in itself. There will only be hymns, "Abide With Me" and "Lead Kindly Light," which men of so many faiths

In this wooded knoll in Arlington Cemetery William Howard Taft will be buried today with full military honors. The partially opened grave can be seen in this picture.

FIRE TRAPS MINERS; ONE DEAD, 87 SAVED

Several May Be Missing; Rescuers Brave Falling Timbers and Smoke.

COAL BLOCKS PASSAGES

Steubenville, Ohio, March 10 (A.P.).—Impeded by burning timbers and falling coal, rescue squads went into the flame-swept Wolf Run Mine of the Warner Collieries near Amsterdam, Ohio, today and brought 88 men to the surface, one of them dead from smoke fumes and the others unharmed.

The only fatality among the men, who for hours were trapped behind a fire wall that cut off the main entrance to the mine, was an old man who suffered from asthma and could not survive the smoke. He was Paul Borkowski, 65.

At 9 o'clock tonight, several hours after the fire started from a short circuit caused by a mine car, officials of the company announced that the workings had been searched thoroughly and that no more miners could be found.

The exact number of men who entered the mine before the fire could not be learned but it had been reported that 91 were inside and there was a possibility that several are missing.

The rescued men were brought to the surface at intervals in groups ranging from 5 to 33. A few had been slightly overcome by smoke, but were revived as soon as they reached the fresh air. Some had found themselves in worse circumstances than others. One group of men, trapped near the fire area, protected themselves from the flames by draping canvas over their clothing.

Burning timbers and coal made the rescue work hazardous. Joists gave way and released slides of coal and slate, blocking the passages.

Within a short time after the fire was discovered rescue crews and firemen had 5,000 feet of hose spread through one of the lifts to the fire area and water, pumped from a nearby creek, was thrown upon the spreading blaze. Fresh air was forced into the workings through an overcast chute.

CHAMBER OPPOSED BINGHAM'S AIRPORT

Report of Hinton That Site Be Leased Temporarily Only Is Adopted.

SMALLER AREA IS CITED

Opposition to purchase of property south of Highway Bridge as an airport development for the National Capital was recorded by the executive committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

This action of the committee constituted indorsement of a report drawn up by Lieut. Walter Hinton, chairman of the aviation committee of the chamber. In opposing the purchase of the property for an airport, the report recommended instead that it be leased until such time as the Gravelly Airport will be available.

The chief argument presented by Lieut. Hinton centered on the following assertion: "If $2,500,000 was spent to fill the Gravelly Point site within two years 500 acres of new land would be produced from what is now waste land covered by water of the average depth of 2½ feet. If the same amount of money is used in developing the site proposed by Senator Bingham only about 260 acres will be produced. This land can never be expanded and will not be suitable for the operation of seaplanes."

The executive committee coupled its voicing of disapproval with the adopting of a resolution recommending that the site for a permanent municipal airport for the District be established at Gravelly Point. To fill immediate needs for aviation facilities, the resolution recommended that Washington Airport and Hoover Field be leased until Gravelly Point is sufficiently developed to permit the use of a portion of it for an airport. Recommendation was also made that the Congressional Airport Commission prepare a bill providing for establishment of an airport at Gravelly Point and also providing for financing of the entire project. Early start of development of the Gravelly Point site was also urged in the resolutions.

Objection to the proposed expenditure of $1,500,000 for a temporary airport in the District was voiced at a meeting last night of the Piney Branch Citizens Association. The association went on record as opposed to any temporary field, advocating that if any money is to be expended it should be for a permanent airport development.

Aviatrix Describes Climb For Air Altitude Record

18-Year-Old Girl Says Motor Cut Out and Oxygen Line Froze When She Was 6 Miles Up; Dead Ship Landed Safely.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., March 10 (A.P.).—Elinor Smith, 18-year-old aviatrix, who today apparently established a new altitude record for women, gave a word picture of her flight to the Associated Press tonight.

Setting out to better the previous record of 24,800 feet, set by the late Marvel Crosson, who was killed in the women's air derby last year, Miss Smith climbed to an apparent height of 32,000 feet. She described her experience in the following words:

"Today was rather warm and hazy and I was rather anxious as to the visibility as I had been told that the winds were so strong above 15,000 feet as to blow one backwards, and, as you may easily guess, I had no wish to be blown out to sea.

"I kept climbing in wide, lazy circles, leaving the haze and smoke at about 5,000 feet. From then on it was beautifully clear, and from my lofty perch I could look down through the smoke and see for miles. In fact when I reached my approximate ceiling of 32,000 feet I could see practically all of Long Island, far up the Hudson River, New York City, past Sandy Hook and into New Jersey.

"I turned my oxygen on at about 16,000 feet and experienced no unpleasant sensations. I was kept pretty busy from then on with my

Woman Dry Inquiry Witness Threatened

Guards Placed at Home of Federation Head After Phone Call.

Baltimore, March 10 (A.P.).—A police guard was placed at the home of Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, after she had received an anonymous telephone call today threatening her with bodily harm should she appear before the House judiciary committee hearing on repeal of the prohibition law.

Mrs. Sippel is one of a score of women scheduled to present their views before the committee on Wednesday.

She told police that the call came at 7:30 this morning and that a man's voice made the threat. She notified police as soon as the caller hung up the receiver, and a plain-clothes man was sent to guard her residence.

Some clubwomen today took a stand against Mrs. Sippel's scheduled appearance before the committee, declaring she had no right to speak for the 3,000,000 members of the organization which she heads. Mrs. W. Raynor Straus, member of the executive board of the Baltimore District of the federation, declared that she was merely representing herself and said that prohibition never had been brought up as a club issue.

(Associated Press.)

With the dry forces preparing to resume their argument in behalf of prohibition Wednesday before the House judiciary committee, members of the law enforcement commission are gathering here to hear Representative Dyer (Republican), Missouri, urge a study of the question of legalizing 2.75 per cent beer.

Both hearings will be held tomorrow. In the meantime, a House judiciary subcommittee will take up today the Christopherson bills sponsored by the law enforcement commission to broaden the power of the United States commissioners with a view to relieving congestion of Federal courts in handling minor prohibition cases.

When the hearings on measures to repeal the eighteenth amendment are resumed, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, general chairman of the woman's national committee for law enforce-

SANFORD IS BURIED WITH SIMPLE RITES

PROFUSION OF FLOWERS

Knoxville, Tenn., March 10 (A.P.).—The Nation tendered its final honor here today to Edward Terry Sanford, associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, at funeral rites bare of all ceremony save the reading of an abbreviated Episcopal service.

Only the presence of famous personages—among them Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Associate Justices Stone, McReynolds and Butler—evidenced the position of the man they were there to revere.

The body and the funeral party arrived here from Washington at 1:30 p. m. Fifty minutes later the body had been carried to the cemetery and the last words of the service had been said by the Rev. Dr. Walter C. Whitaker, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Knoxville.

The service at the grave, at the foot of a hill fringed with pine trees, was said in the presence of Justice Sanford's colleagues, representatives of the Knoxville (Tenn.) and American Bar Association and of delega-

Hoovers to Send Wreath for Taft

Floral Tributes of Nation to Cover Casket of Jurist.

(Associated Press.)

The President and Mrs. Hoover will add again today to the profusion of flowers which has attested the devotion those highly placed and those in humble posts hold for the late William Howard Taft.

Their wreath, which will reach the home in the early hours, will be of lavender sweet peas, Ophelia roses and sprays of blue delphinium. A green ribbon will bind the blooms.

Side by side with the presidential tribute as the body lies in state will be wreaths from members of the Supreme Court, Congress and foreign representatives. Among them, too, will be tiny clusters from the unknown.

NATION TURNS TODAY TO CAPITOL ROTUNDA

Taft's Body to Lie on Same Catafalque That Bore Slain Presidents.

SCENES OF WORK NEAR

(Associated Press.)

The historic rotunda of the Capitol, flanked by the chambers in which William Howard Taft took the oath of President and sat as Chief Justice of the United States, for an hour and a half today will be the focal point of the Nation's mourning for his passing.

Facing the East of the rising sun, the body will lie in state in the center of the rotunda from 10:30 o'clock until noon, while the general public passes on each side of the bier.

The bier was prepared for the seventh time last night. It is the same plain pine catafalque that bore the bodies of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, the martyred Presidents—the same on which the bodies of Admiral Dewey, President Harding, and the Unknown Soldier lay in state. It is covered with plain black broadcloth.

Just off the rotunda is the chamber of the Supreme Court over which the former Chief Justice presided for nine years. Across the corridor is the robing room that was once Thomas Jefferson's private office.

Just beyond is the Senate chamber in which the former President took the oath of that office. The ceremony was indoors because snow was piled on the outdoors platform that March morning in 1908.

At dawn all entrances to the Capitol will be locked. Vehicles will be barred from the grounds and pedestrians will be held several hundred yards from the East entrance, until the funeral procession, with its military escort, arrives at 9:45.

The casket will be borne into the rotunda through a lane of soldiers, sailors and marines lining the Capitol steps. Two soldiers will stand at the head of the bier; a sailor and a marine at the foot. These will be replaced from the ranks outside at 15-minute intervals.

Directly overhead is the great dome of the Capitol. Directly underneath

Longworth Voices Eulogy Of Taft From House Floor

Speaker Relinquishes Gavel to Stand in Aisle and Praise Distinguished Jurist and Fellow Ohioan for Services to Nation.

(Associated Press.)

Speaker Longworth stood in an aisle in the House chamber yesterday and slowly delivered in a low voice a brief eulogy of his friend and fellow Ohioan—the late William Howard Taft.

Relinquishing the gavel to a strong personal friend, but a political foe, Representative Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader, Speaker Longworth left the dais during the brief session to present to the House a resolution of esteem for the departed jurist.

As he turned from his position on the Republican side, the Ohioan said:

"As the member longest in service from the State of his nativity, as the representative for 25 years of the district in which he was born and lived his splendid, eventful life, I take it upon myself the duty to make announcement, as is the custom, from the floor of the House, the death last Saturday at his home in Washington, as the shadows of the evening were about to fall, of William Howard Taft."

"Unique he was," Mr. Longworth continued, "in the possession of the heartfelt affection of more of his fellow countrymen than probably any public man in this country. He was my honored friend so far as memory can run. I remember him well, Mr. Speaker, when I was my daughter's age and he was a student at Yale My heart is heavy indeed."

have found so comforting on occasions like this, and two poems which Mr. Taft liked so much will be read.

The President and his aids will accompany the procession to Arlington.

From the church the body will be transferred from the artillery caisson to a faster moving motor hearse and the military escort will be dropped but another one will receive the cortege at Fort Myer and proceed with it into the national burying grounds, up the hill over its historic and wending walks to a tree-covered spot not so far from the Lee mansion itself.

There in the shadows of friendly cedars and oaks, in a comparatively remote spot, brief committal services will be held, concluding with the singing of hymns and the reading of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." There will be the thundering of rifle and cannon and the bugle notes and that will be all, simple and not prolonged services, but describing graphically the very full life of the man and the happy philosophy that sustained him.

Colleagues to Attend.

The simplicity of the services will be in sharp contrast, too, to the distinguished company that will attend. Official Washington will be present from the Cabinet on down. And there will be the eight former associates of Mr. Taft from the Supreme Court, four of them just back from burying another of their group, Justice Sanford.

The four who remained, Justices Holmes, Van Devanter, Brandeis and Sutherland, gathered yesterday on the bench as it is their formal wont to do on court days, but only for the purpose of immediately adjourning out of respect to their former chief magistrate.

That great patriarch of human liberty, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, of whose eighty-ninth birthday Saturday death made such a mockery, headed the sorrow-laden quartet. There was the customary barking announcement of the court crier as they appeared in their black robes from across the corridor that separates the court from the justice's robing room, but that was the only resemblance to the usual openings of the court. Justice Holmes, bent more than usual, it seemed, walked past the chair in which Justice Sanford had been want to sit, now heavily draped, and took a seat in that occupied by Mr. Taft before he resigned.

Accepted in Silent Awe.

"Such events must be accepted in silent awe," he said.

"On Saturday last, just as we were expecting him at a conference of the justices, we were informed," he said briefly, "that our brother, Mr. Justice Sanford, had become unconscious pending a slight operation. Five minutes later we received word that he was dead.

"Thus suddenly the life of a faithful worker who was born also to charm, went out.

"Afterward came the news that the late Chief Justice had found relief from his hopeless illness in death.

"Such events must be accepted in silent awe.

"A committee of the court, consisting of the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice McReynolds, Mr. Justice Butler and Mr. Justice Stone, has gone to Tennessee for the services over the late Justice Sanford, and on Tuesday the whole court will attend the funeral of Mr. Taft.

"Pursuant to the statute the court will stand adjourned until tomorrow, when again it will be adjourned until Wednesday next at 12 o'clock when the matter then in order will be taken up."

Thus spoke a man who is day after day fighting death by continuing at his work.

Bar Association Represented.

An outstanding delegation attending the funeral will be that representing the American Bar Association of which Mr. Taft was president in 1913 and 1914 and of which he was a member for more than half a century. It includes John W. Davis, Chester I. Long, Charles S. Whitman, William P. McCracken, Edward A. Armstrong, William C. Coleman, Thomas W. Davis, Josiah Marvel, Thomas S. Shelton, Edward A Harriman, Peter O. Nyce, Hampson Gary, Walter C. Clephane, Charles Henry Butler and George Maurice Morris.

Speaker Longworth, of the same State that bore Mr. Taft, will head the House delegation of Representatives Cooper, Nelson and Browne, of Wisconsin; Haugen, of Iowa; Hawley, of Oregon; McLaughlin, of Michigan; French, of Idaho; Porter and Graham, of Pennsylvania; Majority Leader Tilson; Britten, of Illinois; Dyer, of Missouri; Cooper, Kearns, and Hess, of Ohio, all Republicans, and Pou and Doughton, of North Carolina; Garner and Summers, of Texas; Bell, of Georgia; Rainey and Sabath, of Illinois; Byrns and Cordell Hull, of Tennessee; Collier, of Mississippi; Taylor, of Colorado; Montague, of Virginia, and Crosser, of Ohio, Democrats.

Both House and Senate adjourned almost as soon as they met, out of respect to both the late Chief Justice and Justice Sanford.

Resolutions in Senate.

In the Senate Senator Watson offered an appropriate resolution for Mr. Taft, and Senator Brock, of Tennessee, one for Justice Sanford. Senators were named to represent their body as follows: Smoot, Borah, Jones, Norris, Johnson, McNary, Pittman, Shortridge, Fess and McCulloch (Republicans), and Overman, Fletcher, Smith, Swanson, Ashurst Sheppard, Ransdell, McKellar, Harris and Trammell (Democrats).

While all these arrangements, involving many hands, were going on, the former Chief Justice's body was brought down from the room in which he died to the flower-banked reception room on the first floor. There was a fitting quiet about the neighborhood. The curious walked by, but kept walking, and came so far apart as not to disturb the serenity of the neighborhood at all. At intervals automobiles came to a stop in front of the brick colonial mansion, and friends of the family went in to pay their respects. No crepe hung on the door. Outwardly there was nothing unusual within the house.

A warm spring sun bathed the place, suggestive of that new life that comes after the darkness of winter. Perhaps it was symbolical of that new life which Christendom believes Mr. Taft has now embarked upon.

TAFT RITES TO BAN PARKING ON AVENUE

Special Traffic Rules to Be in Force During Funeral of Noted Jurist.

CORTEGE ROUTE GIVEN

Government Workers To Be Given Half Day

Most of the Government workers here will receive a half-holiday today, beginning at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, in respect for the late William Howard Taft.

Heads of all Government departments yesterday were authorized by President Hoover to excuse "all employes that can be spared" in the observance, although the departments theoretically will remain open in conformity with an act of Congress forbidding closing of Government departments at the death of a former Federal official.

The lead of the Federal Government was followed by the District Commissioners, who ordered that all District employes able to be spared from their official duties be dismissed at 12:30 o'clock.

All District courts, except Police Court, will be closed, the District public schools will recess at noon, and the Merchants and Manufacturers Association announced that all department stores and numerous other mercantile establishments would close at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

All District schools will close at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. Principals will conduct brief exercises at their respective schools at this time before the pupils are dismissed.

Special police regulations to facilitate the public ceremonies incident to the burial of former President and Chief Justice Taft were announced yesterday by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police.

No parking of vehicles will be permitted on Pennsylvania avenue from the Peace Monument to Fifteenth street after 8 o'clock this morning until the funeral procession has passed up the Avenue from the Capitol to All Souls Church at Sixteenth and Harvard street.

The funeral procession will proceed up Pennsylvania avenue from the Capitol to the Treasury, then south of the Treasury and north on East Executive avenue, swinging west to Sixteenth street, whence it will go to the church. No parking will be permitted on Sixteenth street from H to Irving street until after the funeral.

While the body of Mr. Taft lies in state in the rotunda in the Capitol the public will be admitted from East Capitol street through lanes running through the Capitol Grounds. The public will pass through the Capitol, after passing the bier, and leave by the west entrance.

The funeral procession will leave the church and travel south on Sixteenth street to New Hampshire avenue, thence southwest to Dupont Circle, passing along the left side of the circle to New Hampshire avenue, to L street, thence west to Pennsylvania avenue to M street to the Key Bridge.

No parking will be permitted on the west side of New Hampshire avenue, the north side of L street, Pennsylvania avenue or M street from 8 o'clock in the morning until after the funeral procession has passed.

There will be 130 police stationed along Pennsylvania avenue during the forenoon until after the funeral procession has passed. Sixteenth street will be handled by the precincts in which it lies, although the special duty men along Pennsylvania avenue will, as the procession passes, move westward to take up new stations to keep the funeral route clear.

Two District police captains and 78 District policemen have been detailed to aid the Capitol police force in handling the crowds in the Capitol and Capitol Grounds.

H. R. Howser, assistant engineer of bridges of the District, yesterday ordered the draw span on the Highway Bridge closed to river traffic from 3:30 o'clock until the President has completed his passage of the bridge to attend the funeral.

tions from the Nashville, Greenville and Chattanooga bars.

During his career as an attorney here and later as district judge, he became a friend of many attorneys of the four cites, and they were invited to participate.

Dr. Whitaker, the justices and members of the family preceded the casket down the Greenwood Cemetery drive. Covered with red roses and carnations, it followed in the hands of pallbearers, all of whom were Knoxville men Justice Sanford had known here.

The crowd at the cemetery had been held to the minimum of request, but flowers were piled high about the grave.

Immediately after the funeral the justices hurried to catch a train for Washington so as to be in time to attend services tomorrow for William Howard Taft, Justice Sanford's chief from his appointment in 1923 until Mr. Taft's recent retirement. Both died Saturday at Washington.

Three Poems Taft Loved To Be Read During Rites

Poetry that William Howard Taft loved in life will be read before his body is consigned to its eternal bivouac. Each of the three poems to be recited epitomizes some event in his life. Each line represents the quintessence of some chapter in his history.

At All Souls' Unitarian the "Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington" by Tennyson, and a portion of the "Character of the Happy Warrior" by Wordsworth will be read by Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, who was Mr. Taft's pastor. Then just before the body is interred in Arlington Cemetery Dr. Pierce will recite Lord Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar."

Ode On the Death of the Duke of Wellington.

I

Yea, let all good things await
Him who cares not to be great,
But as he saves and serves the state.

II

Not once or twice in our fair Nation's story,
The path of duty was the way to glory:
He that walks it, only thirsting
For the right, and learns to deaden
Love of self before his journey closes,
He shall find the stubborn thistle bursting
Into glossy purples, which outreddden

III

Not once or twice in our great Nation's story,
The path of duty was the way to glory:
He, that ever following her commands,
On with toil of heart and knees and hands,
Through the long gorge to the far light has won
His path upward, and prevailed,
Shall find the toppling crags of duty scaled,
Are close upon the shining table lands
To which our God himself is moon and sun.

IV

Such was he. His work is done.
Let his great example stand
Colossal, seen of every land,
And keep the soldier firm, the statesman pure,
Till in all lands and through all human story
The path of duty be the way to glory.

Character of the Happy Warrior.

Who is the happy warrior? Who is he
That every man in arms should wish to be?
It is the generous spirit who, when brought
Among the tasks of real life, hath wrought
Upon the plan that pleased his boyish thought:
Whose high endeavors are an inward light
That makes the path before him always bright.
'Tis he whose law is reason; who depends
Upon that law as on the best of friends;
And labors good on good to fix, and owes
To virtue every triumph that he knows.
Who, if he rise to station of command,
Rises by open means, and there will stand
On honorable terms or else retire
And in himself possess his own desire;
Who comprehends his trust and to the same
Keeps faithful with a singleness of aim,
And therefore does not stoop, nor lie in wait
For wealth, or honors, or for worldly state;
Whose powers shed round him in the common strife
Or mild concerns of ordinary life,
A constant influence, a peculiar grace;
But who, if he be called upon to face
Some awful moment to which heaven has joined Great issues, good or bad for human kind,
Is happy as a lover; and attired
With sudden brightness, like a man inspired;
And, through the heat of conflict, keeps the law
In calmness made, and sees what he foresaw;
Or if an unexpected call succeed,
Come when it will, is equal to the need.
'Tis, finally, the man, who, lifted high,
Conspicuous object in a nation's eye,
Plays in the many games of life, that one
Where what he most doth value must be won;
Whom neither shape of danger can dismay,
Nor thought of tender happiness betray:
Who, not content that former worth stand fast,
Looks forward, preserving to the last,
From well to better, daily self-surpast:
Who, whether praise of him must walk the earth
Forever, and to noble deeds give birth,
Or he must fall to sleep without his fame,
Finds comfort in himself and in his cause:
And, while the mortal mist is gathering, draws
His breath in confidence of heaven's applause.
This is the happy warrior; this is he
That every man in arms should wish to be.

Crossing the Bar.

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;

For tho from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my pilot face to face
When I have crost the bar.

Dinner Is Postponed.

Program of Ceremonies For Taft Funeral Is Set

(Associated Press.)

The succession of events in connection with the funeral of William Howard Taft today follows:

At 9 a. m. the body will be taken from his home, escorted by a squadron of cavalry.

The procession will move through the streets toward the heart of the city, passing the White House and continuing down Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol, arriving about 10:20 a. m.

For one hour and a half the body will lie in state in the Capitol, supported by a historic catafalque and surrounded by a selected military and naval guard, while thousands will pass in double file to pay their last tribute.

At high noon a funeral procession formed by an extended military and naval detail will file slowly up Pennsylvania avenue, passing the White House, and continuing to All Souls' Unitarian Church, arriving about 1:50 p. m.

At 2 p. m., Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce will begin funeral services.

At about 2:35, accompanied by leaders of the Nation in automobiles, and without military escort, the body will be borne from the city to Arlington, while 21-gun salutes are being fired by military and naval posts.

At Fort Myer the procession will be joined by a large military escort, which will fire the final salutes as the body is lowered into its last resting place.

107-YEAR-OLD BELL TO TOLL FOR TAFT

With Chimes and Organ to Feature Services Today in All Souls'.

RITES TO BE UNITARIAN

40 Relatives of Taft Will Attend Funeral

(Associated Press.)

Forty relatives of the Taft family are expected to be among the 900 persons who will attend the funeral services at All Souls Unitarian Church. They will be seated together toward the front of the church.

President and Mrs. Hoover, the members of the Cabinet and of the Supreme Court also will occupy front pews. Representatives of the District of Columbia courts and jurists from other cities will attend.

The heads of all embassies and legations in Washington, a committee of 20 senators and 28 representatives and representatives of the independent agencies of the Government will be in the audience, together with a few invited friends of the family.

(Associated Press.)

The Unitarian service, which draws inspiration from literature as well as from Scripture, will be used today in the funeral and burial rites of William Howard Taft.

No eulogy will be spoken, nor will set phrases be read or changed. But the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, pastor of All Souls' Church, will quote the sentences from the thought of all time which he considers best expresses the character and attainments of Mr. Taft, who was his close friend and parishioner for 25 years.

When the great 107-year-old bell, which has rung every President's death since 1822, starts tolling for Taft, the Rev. Mr. Pierce, in his churchly robes, will meet the body at the church door. In slow processional, with the casket and the family, he will recite the biblical passage beginning, "I am the resurrection and the life——." There will be no choir. Ascending to the pulpit, with the people still standing, he will lead the Lord's Prayer.

No voices will sing the symn, "Lead Kindly Light," but two organs and memorial chimes will join in the melody. As Scripture lesson for the former Chief Justice, the Rev. Mr. Pierce will read the passage beginning, "And Moses chose from among the people able men who feared God and set them over the people as judges." He also will quote a passage in which is the sentence, "I supped upon them when they had no confidence, and the light of my countenance upheld many."

A brief extemporaneous prayer and chimes in "Abide With Me" and two poems, loved by Mr. Taft and suited to Mr. Taft, will complete the service.

In recessional, also, the Rev. Mr. Pierce will repeat appropriate quotations and the old, old bell will toll again as Mr. Taft's body leaves the church.

NATION'S EYES TURN TO CAPITOL ROTUNDA

is the crypt that was prepared as a final resting place for George Washington.

Officials have ordered that a model of the new Supreme Court Building, recently placed in the rotunda, remain there in token of Mr. Taft's unflagging zeal in planning for it. The miniature plaster structure will stand back of the bier. Around the walls of the rotunda, lighted by crossed beams from the windows of the dome rising nearly 200 feet above the floor, stand the figures of other great Americans—Lincoln, Grant, Washington, Jefferson, and Lafayette—in marble.

Flowers will be brought into the rotunda and placed about the casket. When the bodies of President Harding and of the unknown soldier lay in state, representatives of foreign governments presented their floral tributes, one by one.

At noon the rotunda will be cleared again of citizens, and the body of the former Chief Justice and President will be borne out of the Capitol and placed upon the caisson on which it will be taken to the church.

TRIBUTES TO TAFT POUR IN FROM AFAR

Messages Received From U. S. Envoys in London, Paris and Berlin.

REVERED BY RED CROSS

(Associated Press.)

Tributes from organizations which honored William Howard Taft during his busy career and from individuals in many corners of the world last night continued to pour into the home of the former President and Chief Justice.

Taft was the first president of the American Red Cross Society after its reorganization 25 years ago, and was one of its vice presidents at the time of his death. In expressing his grief yesterday, John Barton Payne, chairman of the society, said:

"When he became President of the United States he agreed to remain as president of the American Red Cross, thereby establishing a precedent to which every President of the United States since has gladly adhered."

Tribute was paid him also by William Butterworth, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, as one of the sponsors in the movement which resulted in the creation of that organization.

"His influence in promoting democracy in business and developing a better understanding of the national economy has been immeasureable and will be felt for many years to come," Mr. Butterworth said.

The National Geographic Society, claiming Taft as a member of its board of trustees and as actively identified with the society for 25 years, announced its offices would close temporarily out of respect to his memory.

From Berlin, Paris and London came messages of sympathy to Mrs. Taft from Ambassadors Sackett, Edge and Dawes, while Ambassador Morrow, of Mexico, likewise cabled his condolence from London. From Tokyo, Baron Shidehara, of Japan, said of Mr. Taft that "his fame is secure," while President Arosemena, of Panama, messaged similarly in Spanish.

Among the scores of personal messages received at the Taft home were telegrams from Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State; Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, and Gov. Holloway of Oklahoma, while dozens of societies and organizations throughout the country expressed their sympathy and regret to those who survive the former President.

Radio to Carry Taft Tribute From London

As a part of the extensive radio hookups scheduled today incident to the funeral of William Howard Taft over the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co. chain, the former organization has announced two additional items.

The Columbia chain will transmit from London a tribute to the late Chief Justice by Viscount Robert Cecil, who will begin speaking at 12:30 o'clock, Washington time. During the funeral procession from All Souls' Unitarian Church to Arlington Cemetery, a program of sacred and memorial music will be broadcast through Station WMAL from Washington Cathedral by its choir of men and boys under direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster.

Pilgrims of England Mourn Taft's Passing

London, March 10 (A.P.).—The Pilgrims of Great Britain have sent to the Pilgrims of the United States the following expression of sympathy on the death of former President Taft.

"The Pilgrims of Great Britain desire to be associated with world-wide tribute to Mr. Taft. As guest of the Pilgrims in 1922, he impressed us with his wisdom, his humor and his wide sympathies. He was a very loyal man. Please express our condolences to his family." Lord Derby, chairman of the Pilgrims, signed the message.

Pennsylvanians Postpone Meeting.

Announcement was made yesterday that the meeting of the Pennsylvania Society, scheduled for Friday night, has been postponed until the end of the 30 days of mourning decreed by President Hoover on account of the death of former President Taft.

Law College Closes to Honor Taft.

The Washington College of Law, 2000 G street northwest, will be closed today in respect to the late William Howard Taft, according to announcement last night by Dean Grace Hays Riley.

Taft Will Be Honored By Geographic Society

As a mark of reverence to the memory of William Howard Taft, the National Geographic Society will observe a half-holiday today, beginning at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The late Chief Justice was a member of its board of trustees and had been actively identified for 25 years with the society, which is headed by his cousin, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor. Mr. Taft on various occasions had lectured before the society and had contributed at least 10 articles to its magazine. While he was President he represented the society in presenting the Hubbard Gold Medal to Sir Ernest Shackleton.

In respect to the memory of the former President and Chief Justice of the United States, the George Washington University will close its doors today between the hours of 1 and 4 p. m., it is announced by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the University. Classes in all schools of the University will be suspended during this period.

The Needs of March

Health authorities have repeatedly sounded the warning that March is the Danger Month. Too much festivity all through the winter—too much rich food—too many late hours tend to lower physical resistance.

March is the month above all others when we need plenty of oranges and grapefruit in our diet. They contain valuable vitamins which we particularly require at this time.

Keep your refrigerator well supplied with these delicious fruits and serve them on sparkling beds of pure American Ice. Or if you prefer the juice, serve it in tall, frosty glasses surrounded by cascades of shaved ice.

THREE SOUTHERNERS BOOMED FOR COURT

Two U. S. Circuit Judges and Senator George Seen for Sanford Post.

JOHN W. DAVIS HINTED

Four prominent names were being mentioned in official circles yesterday as prospective appointees to succeed the late Justice Edward Terry Sanford on the Supreme Court bench.

Friends of Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, are preparing to present his name to President Hoover, pointing out that he was on the bench in Georgia from 1912 until his election to the Senate in 1922, after he had been a justice of the Georgia Supreme Court for more than six years. It is believed that his qualifications would be accepted without opposition by the Senate.

Tennessean members of Congress yesterday advocated appointment of Judge Xenophon Hicks, now a member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, whose experience includes ten years on the State bench in Tennessee, five years on the United States district bench and two years in his present capacity.

United States Circuit Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, is still seen as a likely candidate, being a Southern Republican with an excellent reputation as a lawyer and jurist, and therefore regarded in many quarters as the logical successor to Justice Sanford.

Another possibility seen is the selection of John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President in 1924. However, a difficulty is seen in appointing Mr. Davis in that he enjoys a practice similar in nature to that of Charles Evans Hughes, the new Chief Justice, who was opposed by many Democrats on the grounds of too intimate connection with huge corporate clients.

Senator George, on the other hand, likewise a Democrat, not only voted against Mr. Hughes, but spoke against him as well, which might conceivably militate against his chances for appointment as an associate justice.

HOOVER SPEAKS ON BOY SCOUTS

President Hoover, flanked by Boy Scouts, goes on the air in delivering an address relating to the five-year expansion program of the Boy Scouts of America yesterday on the organization's twentieth birthday.

Text of Hoover Address On Boy Scout Expansion

The text of the President's speech follows:

You have met in the special interest of boys. I am a willing ally in that interest. There is no feeling of exclusion of their sisters from our concern, but their similar problems are to be considered elsewhere.

Together with his sister, the boy is the most precious possession of the American home. I sometimes think that one of the sad things of life is that they will grow up. Literature and lore have established our boys in varied relations to life: As a growing animal of superlative promise, to be fed and watered and kept warm, as a periodic nuisance, as a joy forever, as the incarnation of destruction, as the father of the man, as the child of inquiry, as the problem of our times and the hope of the Nation.

In any event he is a complex of cells teeming with affection, filled with curiosity as to every mortal thing, radiating sunlight to all the world, endowed with dynamic energy and the impelling desire to take exercise on all occasions. He is a perpetual problem to his parents, and the wisdom in his upbringing consists more often in the determination of what to do with him next rather than in what he shall do when he goes out into the cold world.

Pressing Problem Outlined.

The problem that we are considering here is not primarily a system of health or education or morals. It is what to do with him in his leisure time that will, of course, contribute to his health and his education and his morals, but in the main what will direct his interests to constructive joy instead of destructive glee and will yield him constructive joy for the balance of his life.

The Declaration of Independence calls special attention to him and his sister in the reference to the inalienable right to liberty and pursuit of happiness. At least in the practical workings of the Republic we find it easier to realize these rights for boys than we do for the grown-up, tax-paying citizen.

As civilization becomes more complex, and as the number of human beings per acre increases, as we live more and more in towns and cities than in the countryside, and as the necessity of submitting to all forms of mechanical device carries us further and further from the simpler and more primitive forms of life, we are unconsciously decreasing liberty for boys and diminishing the opportunities for pursuit of happiness, because the boy is a primitive animal and takes to primitive life. His true life should be one of discovery, adventure and great undertakings not to be found in either the squalor of the tenement house or the drawing room of palatial apartments.

Adventure's Portals Opened.

The Boy Scout movement has opened for him the portals to adventure and constructive joy by reviving the lore of the frontier and the campfire; by establishing contacts with the birds and sometimes with the bees; by matching his patience to the deliberative character of fish; by efficient operation of the swimming hole, and by peeps into the thousand mysteries of the streams, the trees and the stars. And, it is more than this. By the promotion of sense of sportsmanship it builds character. From the contest and competion with zeal but without unfair advantage and without bitterness; restraint that remarks nothing of others which can not be at once forgiven; willingness to subordinate one's self into the team work for the common aim—that is sportsmanship.

There can not be Boy Scouts without organization leaders.

And by leaders I include particularly those devoted men who as troop leaders become the inspiration and friends of boys and upon whom rests the responsibility of actually administering constructive joy.

Boys Learn of Discipline.

Through its organization our boys learn of discipline, they learn the unity of effort. Cooperation and the democracy of play and work, they learn of the duties and satisfactions of service. All of these are the foundations of life, the basis of liberty and happiness, the safeguards against destructive joy in the grown-up life hereafter.

The priceless treasure of boyhood is his endless enthusiasm, his store of high idealism and his fragrant hopes. His is the plastic period when indellible impressions must be made if we are to continue a successful democracy. We assure ourselves that the cure of illiteracy and the fundamentals of education to be the three Rs—reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic. To this we must add one more R, and that is responsibility — responsibility to the community—if we are not to have illiteracy in government.

The conviction that every person in the republic owes a service to the republic, that the republic rests solely upon the willingnes of every one born in it to bear his part of the duties and obligations of citizenship, is as important as the ability to read and write—that is the only patriotism of peace.

Scout Movement Praised.

That the idea of the republic was created for the benefit of the individual is a mockery that must be eradicated at the first dawn of understanding. It is true that many of our schools have recognized this obligation. It is true that our teachers are guiding our children in the first steps of democracy, but I know of no agency that can be more powerful in support of this purpose than the Scout movement.

If we look over the republic today we find many failures in citizenship—we find many betrayals of those who have been selected to leadership. I can not conceive that these failures would take place if every citizen who went to the polls was a good "scout," and every official who was elected had ever been a real Boy Scout.

I give you a powerful statistic. There are about 1,000,000 Boy Scouts in the United States. There is raw material for 10,000,000 more.

Thacher Approval Seen For Solicitor General

(Associated Press.)

The nomination of Judge Thomas Day Thacher, of New York, to be Solicitor General, was reported favorably to the Senate yesterday by its judiciary committee without opposition.

Responding to a written request from the committee Judge Thacher informed the Senate that he had sold his stock in four power companies. On the basis of that action, the threatened opposition o his confirmation disappeared. Chairman Norris, of the committee, said he believed Thacher's nomination would be confirmed by the Senate at an early date.

CONSULTATIVE PACT OPPOSED IN SENATE

Borah and Others Reported Hostile to U. S. Tie-Up in Affairs Abroad.

STIMSON TALK IS LAUDED

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Secretary Stimson's reported rejection of the French proposal for a Mediterranean pact and Prime Minister MacDonald's radio speech respecting entangling alliances have made a favorable impression here, especially on those members of the Senate who accept both statements as an assurance against any form of political commitment by the United States.

But there is some apprehension over the fact that both Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Stimson have avoided categorical statements which would set at rest further conjectures relative to the plan to inveigle Uncle Sam in some disguised form of political pact. Those senators who seek to read between the lines of Mr. MacDonald's statement are by no means convinced that he has given up hope of persuading Mr. Stimson to agree to a "mild consultative pact" which would be sufficiently disguised to appear harmless.

It is noted that Mr. Stimson is reported to have rejected a Mediterranean pact. But this has raised the question as to whether the head of the American delegation is determined, on principle, to reject all political pacts or whether he proposes to look with favor upon some North Atlantic pact or some new form of Kellogg pact.

Latent Fear Is Cited.

If Mr. Stimson had stated flatly that no political pact, no matter how mild in appearance or disguised in form, would be acceptable to the United States, there would have been general indorsement of his position in senatorial circles. But there is a latent fear that Mr. Stimson, in his summary rejection of the Mediterranean pact, may be setting the stage for a different stand on coming political proposals.

Mr. MacDonald's radio speech says "we shall not agree to any treaty which may result in entangling military alliances." He adds that "we shall cooperate in securing and maintaining the peace of the world" and he refers to the "pledge," which he says was contained in the joint Anglo-American statement after his Rapidan conference with President Hoover last fall.

Senators interpret this so-called pledge to mean what President Hoover has explained it to mean, namely that the United States will not become involved, directly or indirectly, in any political pact with Europe. On this basis Mr. MacDonald's statement is eminently satisfactory practically to every member of the Senate.

Different Meaning Hinted.

But if Mr. MacDonald intends to give a different interpretation to the Anglo-American joint statement and assume that a mild consultative pact means no political involvement he will find senators almost unanimously hostile to his proposal, according to a canvass of the situation here.

Nothing will do more to arouse suspicions of the Senate than a disguised political pact or a consultative Atlantic pact or a new form of Kellogg pact, couched in seemingly harmless language. It would follow as a matter of course, if such a pact is agreed to, that Mr. MacDonald would say it is not a military alliance and it does not involve the United States in the political affairs of Europe and Mr. Stimson might be in a position to claim that such an agreement is nonpolitical and harmless. But he would find very few members of the Senate in agreement with him, it is explained. Senate leaders, including Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, decline to comment specifically on a "harmless consultative or political pact."

There is no such thing as a "harmless political pact with Europe," according to men like Senator Borah, and this is the position of an overwhelming majority on both sides of the Senate chamber.

ment, plans to present representatives of women's organizations which she says have a total membership of 12,000,000. She said today they will oppose any effort to modify or repeal the dry laws.

Representative Dyer is author of a bill to legalize 2.75 per cent beer. He recently conferred with President Hoover on the advisability of enacting such legislation in an effort to divert hard liquor drinkers to the low percentage beer, which he holds is nonintoxicating and within the Volstead law. The Chief Executive referred him to the commission, which granted him the hearing. Dyer is ranking majority member on the House judiciary committee.

Man Buried Alive 391 Hours; Claims Record

Des Moines, Iowa, March 10 (A.P.).—Floyd Waite claims the world record or whatever it might be called for staying buried 6 feet in the ground in a box with a 6-inch pipe and a telephone for outside connections, and no one so far has been found who does not agree that he is welcome to it.

Floyd was buried February 22 with nothing for company except the telephone. Yesterday they dug him up. As soon as he could unkink himself he announced:

"I got the world's record. Yes, sir, I was in that thing for 391 hours, and that's a real record."

bargo against an aggressor, which is one of the subjects on which France has failed to obtain satisfaction here.

That catalog shows without further comment how vital and how disappointing to France week-end conversations here have been.

In view of the collapse of the "political" aims of France, which M. Briand did not attempt to conceal, the meeting of the heads of the five delegations called for today was cancelled.

Instead, the American, British and French chiefs met and decided to put experts to work examining figures. They also decided that the Americans were to be known only as "observers."

Morrow Sits In.

Ambassador Morrow qualified for this familiar title when he sat in with Theodore Marriner, of our State Department, this morning and with Mr. Marriner and Commander Harold C. Train this afternoon at the session, at which First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander and Jacques-Louis Dumesnil, French minister of marine, were protagonists with attendant experts.

The reason supplied semiofficially by the British tonight in answer to questions as to why Ambassador Morrow has suddenly become an "observer" are more interesting than the technical discussions of the naval chiefs, which are directed by the British to turn X-rays on the French program and find out what it really means and whether any water can be squeezed out of it.

The British, it was explained in reply to various questions, did not appoint an observer to watch Japanese-American discussions because these primarily concern the Pacific. Likewise, the Americans felt that Anglo-French disputes did not concern them. Excepting, it was said—and this is why Mr. Morrow and the American experts now watch Anglo-French disoussions—that the United States recognizes that the Hoover-MacDonald parity figures are tentative only and depend entirely on the size of continental navies.

Confirms Fact Long Known.

Thus, confirmation has been openly obtained for the first time of what has long been known—that the British will not stand by their tentative agreement with the United States unless France makes the reductions that it is obvious she will not make.

In examining the French program today the experts came up against facts that the British claim show that France, though announcing a fleet of only 724,000 in 1936, will have 843,000 tons within two years thereafter unless more scrapping is done that has been announced. The admiralty experts base this conclusion on the claim that the French building program for 1934, 1935 and 1936 is not included in the figures announced by M. Tardieu and that this amounts to 118,000 tons, of which one-third will be in service in 1937.

In Italian circles today it was said that Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Stimson are anxious for Italy to name figures lower than those of France, to be used as a lever in British arguments with the French. The Italians are understood to have refused and to have repeated their claim to parity with France.

FUNERALS POSTPONE DOHENY BRIBE TRIAL

District Supreme Court Is Halted Out of Respect to Taft, Sanford.

OPENING IS TOMORROW

(Associated Press.)

Out of respect to the memory of William Howard Taft and Justice Edward Terry Sanford, who died Saturday, the bribery trial of Edward L. Doheny, millionaire oil operator, yesterday was postponed until tomorrow.

The court order, signed by Justice William Hitz, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, said that yesterday's adjournment was out of respect to Justice Sanford, who was buried yesterday afternon in Knoxville, Tenn., and that the recess today is to the memory of Mr. Taft, former Chief Justice and President, who will be buried today in Arlington National Cemetery.

Doheny, accompanied by his wife, was in court as the announcement of the recess was made. He is charged with giving a bribe of $100,000 to Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior. Fall was convicted of receiving the bribe and is at liberty pending an appeal.

A conference between counsel and Justice Hitz followed the recess and after it ended Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for Doheny, and his associate, Joseph J. Cotter, filed a plea contending that to place Doheny on trial for bribery would have the effect of putting him in double jeopardy because of the fact he was tried for conspiring with Albert B. Fall to defraud the Government of the Elk Hills lease three years ago and was acquitted.

The brief contended that the former trial raised the same questions that will be submitted to the jury in the bribery trial, namely, that Doheny had given $100,000 to Fall and had received the lease. Justice Hitz will rule on the plea when court opens tomorrow.

The same plea was filed in the bribery trial of Fall last October, but was overruled.

Special Government Prosecutors Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts filed a demurrer to the plea, saying that even if the reasons given for asking dismissal were true that they did not constitute sufficient reason for dismissal.

BOY SCOUT APPEAL IS MADE BY HOOVER

earlier generations, Secretary Wilbur spoke of the necessity of returning to the cities some of the natural elements destroyed in their building. "We must get our boys away from the artificial elements of city life," he said, "and there is no organization better suited to this purpose than the Boy Scout movement.

"It is our duty to expand this movement so that it may serve a broader field, improve our youth and assist in the preservation of American principles of citizenship and democracy."

In announcing the appointment of James Edward West, chief scout executive, as a member of the White House conference on child health and protection, Mr. Wilbur expressed the hope that the committee would succeed in combining the Boy Scouts and similar character building organizations into a cooperative agency concentrating on the child outside the home and school.

Head and West Speak.

Accomplishments of the Scout movement and problems facing its expansion were discussed by Mr. Head and Mr. West, both agreeing that benefits of the organization could not be materially extended until more funds are made available. Mr. West said that present activities of the movement were seriously retarded by limited personnel and financial backing.

Mr. Schiff, vice president and international commissioner of Boy Scouts, briefly reviewed plans for expanding under a five-year program, and introduced a resolution urging the subscription of a $10,000,000 fund. The resolution was unanimously adopted after delegates from the 30-odd national divisions of the organization rose to indorse it.

Another resolution adopted at an afternoon meeting of the executive board deplored the death of former President Taft, and commended Scouts to study his life.

Sponsors of Banquet.

The committee sponsoring the banquet included: Vice President Curtis, Speaker Longworth, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Secretary of Labor Davis, Secretary of War Hurley, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; William Butterworth, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. All members of the committee were present except Mr. Curtis, Mr. Longworth and Mr. Davis.

The speakers were introduced by Mr. Butterworth, who served as toastmaster, and the addresses of the President, Mr. Wilbur and Mr. Head were broadcast over both the Columbia and National Broadcasting Co.'s national hook-ups.

The banquet opened with an invocation by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of the Washington diocese and closed with a benediction by the Right Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of the Catholic University of America.

Prior to the President's speech, Scouts of several District troops staged a tableaux descriptive of the organization's work.

"Thrift sweetens the bread of the workingman; it makes him conscious of his own cause, his own safety, his own dignity."

THRIFT is a virtue best acquired through practice. The rewards of Thrift are of more material worth, probably, than any other talent practiced by man.

Thrift means Growth . . . Expansion. It is the opposite of Stinginess and Parsimony.

The Federal-American National Bank is organized to encourage the practice of Thrift. Each Department is designed to supply some form of financial service. No matter what your particular problem may be there is a banking Department here to handle it for you.

An investigation will show you the advantages of an account placed with the Federal-American National Bank.

103 IN QUARANTINE, VICTIMS OF MALADY

Outbreak of Paralysis in Tennessee Laid to Liquor Drinking.

FOUR DEAD IN N. DAKOTA

Johnson City, March 10 (A.P.).—Quarantine of 103 patients afflicted by a baffling paralytic malady in Washington, Carter and Unicoi Counties was announced tonight by Dr. S. S. Moody, Washington County health officer.

Although neither cause nor cure had been found, Dr. Moody announced "the same precautions taken whenever there is a suspicion of contagion through the respiratory organs are being taken in these cases."

Dr. Moody said that all school children in families visited by the disease had been instructed to remain at home. Adult members not suffering were told they could go to their businesses provided they exercised rigid precaution at home.

Rum Theory Held.

The malady, which, so far has not proved fatal to any of those afflicted, has not responded to any of various treatments tried, nor have physicians been able to ascertain its cause.

Dr. Moody said this afternoon that there was growing evidence that liquor may be the cause of the disease.

"Probably 98 per cent of the Washington County cases have a history which shows drinking," said Dr. Moody. "About 50 per cent of the patients said they had recently been drinking 'jake' (Jamaica Ginger) and many others drank plain bootleg."

Dr. Moody said reports of additional persons being afflicted with the malady were being received every hour. He said even the 14-year-old girl afflicted had admitted drinking liquor.

Symptoms of Disease.

The disease which has its inception in a head cold is followed by a sore throat, then numbness of the lower limbs. From two to three days after the numbness sets in, excruciating pain of the lower limbs follows, and in five days physicians said, the patient is unable to stand or walk without severe pain.

A check of all cases was being made today to ascertain if there was a common cause for the illness. Dr. W. W. King, Carter County health officer, took spinal fluid from several patients for an analysis.

Dr. King today said there was inconclusive evidence that the disease is contagious.

Dr. P. C. Stewart, State peidemiologist, from Nashville, has been assigned to assist local physicians in combatting the disease.

No Poison Found.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 10 (A.P.).—Failing to find any traces of poison in eight samples of Jamaica ginger, C. E. Clifford, city chemist, today was inclined to doubt the theory that use of the ginger as a beverage was responsible for a strange malady which has stricken several hundred Oklahomacitians. The disease is accompanied by paralytic symptoms.

Clifford pointed out, however, that his analyses were not conclusive as many more samples remained to be tested.

Dr. D. T. Bowden, director of the State chemical laboratory, reported he had completed tests of two samples of Jamaica ginger without finding any poisonous elements.

Dr. Walter H. Miles, city health director, clung to the opinion Jamaica ginger resulted in the illness, while other physicians believed lead poisoning was responsible.

Denatured Alcohol Blamed.

Devils Lake, N. Dak., March 10 (A.P.).—Denatured alcohol, not an anti-freeze solution, was responsible for the death of four and possibly five Indians and the illness of three others near Tokio on the Fort Totten reservation, Benson County authorities said today.

McDonald said that Matthias Taylor, held for questioning, told him that William Wanata, one of the Indians seriously ill, had bought a gallon of denatured alcohol in Devils Lake Friday before the drinking party started. Wanata, blinded and paralyzed, was unable to talk. Four of the men died after drinking the mixture, while a fifth wandered away and had not been found.

The Theater Guild Acting Company last night staged the American premiere of Turgenev's intense drama, "A Month in the Country," at the National Theater.

One of the most unusual plays of the season, "A Month in the Country," proved to be another Guild success. It was marvelously staged. Its settings were superb and brought forth spontaneous applause; but, best of all, the casting was perfect and the Theater Guild Company turned in a perfect score.

The story of "A Month in the Country" is an interesting study in psychology, having to do with the scattered affections of a married woman and her husband, her platonic lover, and a youth in his wild teens. Miss Alla Nazimova, playing the part of Natalia Petrovna, the neurotic wife whose heart hungers for outside love interest, is splendidly cast in the part. More than that, Nazimova, in a role somewhat different than those she has portrayed in her last appearances here, proves herself to have mounted in stage stature; to have grown in her art—so that now she is the quintessence of artistry.

Notable performances were turned in by Dudley Digges, Henry Travers, Elliot Cavot, and Miss Eunice Stoddard.

Realty Bill Draft Up to Committee

Task of Writing Measure to Regulate Business Before House Group.

The task of writing a bill to regulate the real estate business here was put up to the full House District committee yesterday by the judiciary subcommittee that has been considering the proposed legislation.

The bill which the subcommittee has had before it now consists of only one provision, the others having been stricken out. Hence, the full committee either will have to write virtually a new bill, or else direct the subcommittee to do it.

The remaining provision is aimed at the dealer who artificially boosts prices in order to obtain a higher sale price. Oscar H. Brinkman, former clerk of the Senate District committee, urged that this provision be retained, but H. L. Rust, mortgage banker, opposed it on the ground that it might interfere with legitimate business.

MILLIONS INVOLVED IN GAS VALVE CASE

Failure of Company to Act on Cut-Off Law to Be Cited in Court.

ISSUE IS SIX YEARS OLD

Failure of the Washington Gas Light Co. to comply with a law more than six years old will be tested in the courts as a result of an order issued yesterday by the District Commissioners that proceedings be instituted in Police Court to convict the company for its failure to install gas cut-off valves outside of buildings.

The question was raised by Fire Chief George S. Watson. A regulation adopted by the Commissioners September 23, 1924, provided that the Washington and Georgetown companies should install cut-off valves outside all buildings where the gas is fed through a pipe 1½ inches or more in diameter, or where more than one gas meter is supplied.

The Georgetown company has been at work complying with this regulation, but recently estimated that even six years after its promulgation it still would require not less than three months to complete the task. The Washington company estimated it would take ten years to do the work required under the law.

The latter company contended that the regulation was an improper one and beyond authority of the Commissioners, because it confiscated property without due process of law. The penalty provided in the regulation is a fine of not less than $5 or more than $40 for each offense and it prescribed that each day of violation should be considered a separate offense. If the company were convicted for each building it has failed to equip with a cut-off valve outside the building and fined the maximum for each day of its failure, the total would mount into millions, it is estimated.

One particular building will be selected to be the basis of a test case and the District will seek to enforce the regulation through a conviction in this case.

May we express our sympathy to the immediate family of William Howard Taft . . . and convey some measure of our own respect as we close our doors at 2 P. M. today.

Along Toward 2 A. M.

RAIN against the window panes, quick and sharp. Dead branches creaking in the wind. A still, dim-lighted room, its silence broken only by the crackle of burning logs, and the rustle of a turning page . . . What a night to read!

Fred Taylor was reading the latest mystery thriller, one of those stories you just can't put down. Hours passed and, along toward 2 A. M., had he glanced at the window he might have seen a swarthy countenance and two threatening eyes, which swiftly disappeared.

What could have caused this would-be intruder to slink away . . . it was not the sight of the reader but the telephone in the corner . . . . symbol of safety to the householder . . . symbol of easily summoned protection.

Perhaps your literary tastes don't run to detective stories, and you may never read until 2 A. M. But, the menace of the unwanted intruder is ever present . . . and a telephone is a real protection.

"If soap irritates your skin you are using the wrong kind"

EMILE MASSÉ

whose beauty shop, in Paris, is known throughout the continent

"Every complexion needs soap and water. But some soaps are harmful. They injure the texture of the skin They contain too much free alkali . . . caustic soda . . . similar irritants. That is why I advise all my clients: 'Never use any soap except Palmolive'"

E. Massé
16 Rue Daunou, Paris

Here is the celebrated Massé, himself, superintending a facial treatment given by one of the assistants in his salon.

Palmolive is pure. It is made of palm and olive oils, known for generations as nature's greatest beautifiers. Since the days of the lovely Cleopatra, nothing has ever supplanted these beauty oils.

"THE beauty specialist cannot work on an irritated skin," says Emile Massé, of Paris. "Every woman should aid her beauty expert by using Palmolive. Its vegetable oil content is safe, soothing, non-irritating." Monsieur Massé, famous Parisian beauty specialist, explains—in these words—why 19,813 of his celebrated colleagues recommend Palmolive Soap. They want their clients to use a soap that definitely helps the expert in keeping complexions lovely. And Palmolive is their universal choice.

Why the skin needs soap and water

The pores must be thoroughly yet gently cleansed twice every day, to keep the skin from looking drawn, muddy, coarse, uncared for.

Palm and olive oils, as combined in Palmolive Soap, provide a penetrating, healing cleanliness that is the very foundation of facial beauty. Since the days of Cleopatra, these two famous cosmetic oils have been used as beautifiers. Nothing has ever supplanted them. "This soap," says Massé, "combines deep cleansing with the well-known cosmetic effects of palm and olive oils."

Palmolive's color is the natural color of olive and palm oils. The natural odor of these oils makes unnecessary the addition of heavy perfume. It contains no other fats . . . just nature's own cosmetic oils.

Consult your beauty expert

Visit your beauty expert regularly, to be well groomed in every beauty detail. And cooperate with your expert by using Palmolive Soap daily in this simple treatment advocated by more than 19,800 famous beauticians:

Massage a smooth lather of Palmolive gently into the skin for about 2 minutes. Then rinse it off with warm water, graduating to cold. That's all. But be sure you do it regularly night and morning—as Monsieur Massé and the other famous experts advise.

P. S.—And use Palmolive for the bath, too. It costs no more than ordinary soaps, you know.

Just a short distance from the famous Place Vendome is the salon of Massé, on the Rue Daunou, right in the heart of fashionable Paris.

HYATTSVILLE WARNS VOTERS TO REGISTER

Separate Entries Required for Town and County Elections.

ROAD REPAIR REPORTED

Separate registration for town and county elections was reiterated by the Town Council of Hyattsville at a meeting last night in authorizing William T. Connors, as chairman of its election committee, to caution voters against neglecting this duty. Announcement also was made that dodgers will be broadcast to this effect before election.

The Maryland State roads commission, in a communication received, declared that when the weather permitted it would repair Cottage road and also the intersection of Rhode Island and Columbia avenues, damaged in construction of the overhead bridge at Hyattsville, but that it did not feel responsible for damage incurred at the same time along Locust avenue. The town council voted to take up the latter matter again with the commission.

William A. Shepherd, town treasurer, reported that the town government had a bank balance of $5,132.85 at the end of February, after having increased its collections to $6,847.20 with expenditures of $1,714.35 during the month.

E. W. Baker, secretary pro tem of the federation of municipal officers of the metropolitan district, notified the council that a meeting of the organization would be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the Mount Rainier town hall, when by-laws and a constitution would be drafted and officers elected.

Miss Flora Davis was named to the town library board to succeed Mrs. Florence Steele, resigned. Mrs. Steele was appointed to continue in an advisory capacity.

Students Rearrested for Inquiry Into Shooting at Carnegie Tech.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 10 (A.P.).—Walter O. Krebs and E. H. Bane, students, were rearrested today following the death of Newell Gibson, 24, instructor of chemistry at Carnegie Tech, who was shot Saturday at the Krebs home, where a party had been in progress. Krebs and Bane will be held pending disposition of the case by the coroner.

Krebs told police after the shooting that Gibson was wounded while they were struggling for a pistol, which he feared might be accidentally discharged. Gibson, in a statement from his hospital bed Saturday night, exonerated the students and they were released under $250 bond each.

Bane, a University of Pittsburgh law student of Uniontown, Pa., said he was asleep at the time. They said drinks were served. Krebs and Gibson were classmates at Yale, according to Krebs, who told police the chemistry instructor was one of his best friends.

Lowell Sherman to Marry Helene Costello Saturday

Hollywood Fashion Plate and Film Actress to Go to Europe.

Los Angeles, Calif., March 10 (A.P.).—Lowell Sherman, monocled film player, today filed notice of intention to wed Helene Costello, actress and daughter of the screen star, Maurice Costello.

In giving his occupation the fashion plate of Hollywood boulevard wrote:

"Actor——?"

"Lots of people," he explained with a laugh, "don't think I'm an actor, even though I work at it, so I put that question mark there to satisfy them."

The wedding is set for Saturday. It will be Miss Costello's second marriage and Mr. Sherman's third. He is 38 and she is 22. In June, they will go to Europe on their honeymoon, screen work necessitating a delay in the wedding trip.

John Barrymore will be best man, and Dolores, sister of Helene, will be matron of honor.

Marriage of Coed to Man Already Wed Is Annulled

Whirlwind Mexico City Romance Ends Up in San Antonio Court; Separated Lovers Still on Very Friendly Terms.

San Antonio, Texas, March 10 (A.P.).—The marriage of Miss Alice Gutknecht, University of Wisconson coed, and R. A. Davis, of Mesa, Ariz., disabled World War veteran and married man, which followed a whirlwind courtship in Mexico City, was ended legally here today when District Judge Frederick Stevens entered a decree of annulment.

This procedure was agreed to by Davis and the young woman after he had been confronted with a description of himself furnished by Arizona officers and had admitted he had a family in Mesa. The admission was made to Capt. Lee V. Hunnicutt, commander of an American Legion post here, at a hospital where physicians said Davis was suffering from a heart ailment.

Because of his services over seas, Hunnicutt said no action would be taken to bring the veteran into court for criminal action. "We believe his action was the result of a condition growing out of World War injuries," the captain said.

Davis and the Milwaukee girl were married in Mexico City a week ago.

Miss Gutknecht, who arrived here Saturday with her mother, from Mexico City with Davis, who was delayed at the border because he had no passport, appeared on the friendliest of terms when she visited Davis at the hospital. She addressed him as "dear."

"We have no hard feeling against Rudy," Miss Gutknecht's mother said. "We have no intention of taking the matter to court, or causing him any trouble about this.

"Whether it was loss of memory, resulting from injuries received in the war, or whether it was love, he was not to blame. Love is the strongest force in the world. My daughter loves him, but I do not know how she feels about having to be taken away from Rudy now."

The mother said she and her daughter planned to resume their tour tonight, and probably would not return to their Milwaukee home until April or May.

Davis, in explaining his actions, declared he "forgot all past and future" when he met Miss Gutknecht and spent $3,000 in courting her in Mexico City. He said he left his Arizona home two weeks ago on a business trip to San Angelo, Tex., and could not explain how he ever ended up in Mexico City.

Girl, 20, Goes on Trial For Slaying Mother

Colville, Wash., March 10 (A.P.).—Helen Moses, pretty 20-year-old Indian girl, who shot and killed her mother after being threatened with a spanking for going to a dance with Clarence Hartley, her sweetheart, went to trial here today on a murder charge.

The mother, Mrs. Susie Moses, had objected to Hartley's attentions to the girl. Hartley is charged with being an accessory to the slaying and will be tried later. He is alleged to have restrained Mrs. Moses from carrying out her threat to administer a spanking.

ATTEMPTS ON MAN'S LIFE PUZZLE POLICE

World War Veteran Fired On Twice Within Three Days.

SUSPECT IS GRILLED

Police last night were attempting to unravel the mystery surrounding the second attempt to take the life of Herman D. Robbins, 34 years old, World War veteran, of K street near Ninth street northwest.

James Cody, 30 years old, of K street near Fourteenth street northwest, who was arrested following an investigation, was grilled at police headquarters yesterday afternoon by Detective Lieut. Edward Kelly and Detective Sergt. Michael Dowd. Cody denied any knowledge of the shooting, adding that he was in a motion picture theater Sunday night at the time Robbins claimed a bullet whizzed by his head.

The police have refrained from making any formal charge against Cody. He was merely slated for investigation. After being questioned at police headquarters he was returned to the First Precinct Station to await further investigation of Robbins' story.

The second attempt to take Robbins' life occurred while he was on his way to a drug store at Tenth and K streets, according to his story to the police. He said that he was startled by the report of a revolver shot and felt the bullet go by his head as he darted into a doorway. He said that he did not see his alleged assailant.

While walking near his home Friday night, Robbins said, three shots were fired at him, but none took effect. He said the shots were fired by an unidentified person in an automobile which sped away.

AVIATRIX DESCRIBES CLIMB FOR RECORD

motor. When I got to 32,000 I evidently turned out the mixture too much and the motor cut out. At the same moment the oxygen tank flow gauge froze tightly and cut off my supply.

"The sudden movement of reaching for the mixture and throttle controls, combined with the absolute cessation of oxygen flow, was evidently too much strain and everything turned black for a few seconds. When I came to, I was down to about 27,000 feet with the ship in a gentle glide and the oxygen coming so fast that it just about choked me.

"I regulated the flow and tried to gain back the altitude I lost but every time I got above 28,000 the flow gauge froze again and I became so weakened from pounding it that I decided I had better come in. By this time I was running only on my left wing tank. Finding that my motor was cutting pretty badly and that the throttle didn't take any effect, I decided that the gas lines must be frozen. The gauges were frozen over and impossible to read. As I was coming down rather rapidly I was compelled to swallow quite frequently to relieve the pressure in my ears.

"My motor left me just as I was coming in and I landed 'dead stick' and rolled into a mud puddle."

Miss Smith indicated that she would soon seek the airplane speed record for women.

Klansman Is Fined In Canadian Raid

Masked Band Takes Girl Out of Her Common-Law Husband's Home.

Oakville, Ontario, March 10 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Members of the Ku Klux Klan in Canada found today that the time honored phrase, "A man's home is his castle," still holds good in British jurisprudence when C. W. A. Phillips, leader of a band of white-robed Klansmen who invaded this town last week carrying a fiery cross and took a white girl from the house of her common-law Negro husband, was fined $50 with an alternative of 30 days in jail in police court.

The case has aroused wide interest as the first in Canada involving the klan. More than 100 klansmen were involved in the raid.

Defense protested that the klansmen had acted in orderly fashion and drew an admission from the girl, Isabella Jones, that she was living with Ira Johnson "immorally."

1,000 Pennies Stolen From Auto.

The theft of a bag containing 1,000 pennies was reported to the police yesterday afternoon by Edward M. Hall, of 1455 Harvard street northwest. The bag was taken from Hall's automobile while it was parked at Seventh and R streets northwest.

FAREWELL!

Americans turn their thoughts today to Washington, while the body of William H. Taft is placed in state in the rotunda of the Capitol, to be taken thence to the church where he worshiped, and then consigned to the grave in Arlington. The people will picture to themselves the pomp of the Nation's ministrations to its well-beloved son—the trampling of cavalry, the slow martial music, the files of citizens passing by the bier upon which Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Harding rested, the fluttering of the Stars and Stripes, the ceremonies at the church, and the gathering around the grave. The Nation's heartbeat, like the tolling of bells, will mark every step of this mournful day.

Sadness and mourning attend the passing of the great American; but in the sadness there is solemn pride, and in the mourning there is comfort and consolation. Chief Justice Taft was granted man's span of life, and he employed it nobly and unselfishly. Good deeds do not die. Kindly acts are not canceled. Great service for one's country is not dust. Wise judgments do not perish, but are as fruit of an ever-living tree. The President and Chief Justice who served his countrymen survives in their hearts, and his judgments remain as the law of the land. Weary with toil, his bodily frame racked with illness and exhaustion, he goes to sleep and rest. His work remains alive, his character endures, and the nobility emanating from his soul is like a never-failing spring of fresh waters from which Americans now unborn will be refreshed.

The God of the Republic watches over the green slopes of Arlington, where America's sons are laid away. The new grave will lose its newness, and innumerable seasons will cover it with bloom and snow, but the sleeper will sleep sweetly, and his goodness will not be forgotten. Men will teach their children to remember him, and their children's children will learn the story. Is it not written in the annals of their country?

THEY WANT AMOS 'N' ANDY.

The education-by-radio movement is meeting many snags. Educators see great possibilities for popular enlightenment in the radio. Commercial agencies interested in attracting people to their programs also recognize the potential value of the idea. But promotion of harmony between the two groups is giving such trouble that the era of education by radio appears to lie in the remote future.

Secretary Wilbur appointed a committee to investigate the subject. That committee now reports that differences between broadcasters and educators are so wide as to raise grave doubts as to whether common grounds can be reached. College stations, it was found, are free from "dividend motives," and have specialists qualified for educational broadcasting, but they lack high power, capital, a preferred position in the air channels and large audiences. The commercial stations have these advantages, but they are selling their time, and they give the people what the people want.

The committee reluctantly admits that radio audiences are not pleading for education. They are in a mood for entertainment. Since nothing can prevent any one from turning the dial away from a scientific discussion to a jazz orchestra, the dial will turn.

Where is the scientist who can command the salary of Amos 'n' Andy?

BACK FROM ANTARCTICA.

When the bark City of New York dropped anchor in the harbor of Dunedin Monday, there was brought to a conclusion one of the most remarkable and dramatic adventures of all time. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and the intrepid scientists and adventurers he commanded at Little America were aboard the bark. They have returned to civilization following a stay extending well over a year's time in the wastes of Antarctica, during which a flight by airplane to the South Pole was successfully negotiated, 286,000 square miles of new lands reconnoitered, and scientific investigations completed which promise to prove of immeasurable interest.

The Byrd expedition was in marked contrast to those of earlier days. Whereas formerly an explorer would disappear into the vast unknown with his provisions lashed to dog sleds, Commander Byrd spent months choosing personnel and assembling stores and equipment estimated to have been worth in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. The expedition was possessed of every known device that would facilitate its work and make possible a detailed study of conditions in the Antarctic. Because of the forethought and thoroughness with which the expedition was equipped and with which its investigations were planned, it was able to penetrate many of the mysteries that have been locked since time immemorial in the ice-bound land that lies at the bottom of the world. The expedition discovered important mountain ranges, gathered valuable geological data, and made an exhaustive study of meteorological conditions in the Antarctic.

The Byrd expedition is bringing a rich contribution to mankind's store of knowledge. When the data collected by its scientists have been assembled and published it will be found that the cost of the expedition and the effort that was expended by its members were well worth while. In the meantime, it is enough to know that Admiral Byrd and the members of the expedition are safely back to civilization. All else will wait while the world welcomes them home.

THE HAITIAN PROGRAM.

The Haitian commission has decided upon a plan which is apparently satisfactory to all factions in the island republic as well as to President Hoover. The group opposing President Borno is asked to designate some neutral, nonpolitical candidate who is satisfactory to the existing government. This candidate would be elected without organized opposition. The provisional president would then call a popular election, and submit his resignation to the legislature thus chosen. A new chief executive to serve for the regular term would be elected by the legislature.

The commission has been forced to act hastily because of the approaching election. President Borno's term expires on May 15, and unless some provision is made for a successor satisfactory to all factions serious disorders may result. The recommendations of the commission are designed to meet an emergency, and, of course, do not represent its final conclusions.

The United States is not inclined to withhold freedom and the right of self-determination from the Haitian people. The question to be decided is how much political responsibility they can meet. The Government will be glad to withdraw its marines and its high commissioner whenever the Haitian people are able to maintain order by themselves. Until that time the best interests of the republic demand that American guidance continue.

The Haitians greeted the commission with enthusiasm. A wave of feeling in favor of a representative government has swept over the island. There is a tendency to forget the disasters which took American marines to Haiti, and there appears to be serious danger of moving too hastily toward complete self-government. The people and the commission would do well to ponder the old proverb, "Haste makes waste," which is perhaps more true in situations of this kind than under any other conditions. The United States will be glad to see the Haitians manage their own affairs, but it is better to prevent trouble than to put down revolutions after they have taken a toll of life and property.

GROWTH OF SHIPPING.

During the decade prior to 1914 10 per cent (in value) of American foreign trade was carried in American vessels. During the last decade American ships carried over 35 per cent.

Considering the increase of the value of American foreign trade carried in American ships, which, during the decade prior to 1914, averaged $300,000,000 annually as compared with the last decade, when it averaged $2,600,000,000, the carriage of American foreign trade by American ships shows a substantial increase.

In 1914 6 American ships of 70,000 gross tons were operated in trade with Europe. Today there are 232 American ships of a million and a half gross tons operating in this trade.

In 1914 5 American ships of 23,000 tons operated in the trade between the United States and South America. Today 90 American ships of 550,000 tons are operating in this trade.

In 1914 no American ships visited the African Continent. Today 22 ships of 125,000 gross tons are in the African trade.

In 1914 there were 5 American ships operating from Pacific Coast terminals to the Far East. Today 140 American ships of 1,000,000 gross tons are operating in the trade with Asia.

Comparing the 1910-1914 period with that of today American trade with Europe has increased 50 per cent, with South America 200 per cent, with Africa 325 per cent and with Asia 380 per cent.

In established services in the foreign and noncontiguous trades there are now employed nearly 700 American vessels of almost 4,000,000 gross tons, and nearly all of these vessels are of 2,000 gross tons and over.

Of the 52 passenger and freight services originally established by the United States Shipping Board, through consolidations and sales to private American owners, there remain only 18 lines under the jurisdiction of the board.

At the peak of its activities the United States Shipping Board had under its jurisdiction in vessels requisitioned, commandeered, chartered, purchased, seized and under contract to build, 4,500 ships of 17,500,000 gross tons.

The Shipping Board built 2,313 ships of over 13,600,000 deadweight tons. It has reduced this total by sales and otherwise to 482 ships of about 4,000,000 deadweight tons, of which 227 ships of about 2,000,000 deadweight tons are in active operation.

As a result of the merchant marine act of 1928 shipbuilding activities in American yards have been greatly stimulated. Contracts for 17 ships have been awarded, totaling nearly $70,000,000. These, together with additional ships to be constructed under the mail contracts to be awarded, will make a total of 52 ships costing approximately $235,000,000, most of which are to be built in the next five years. They will all be of the most modern types and comparable to any in the world.

The United States is again occupying an important place in world shipping. With the program now under way for the building of modern ships and with the people and the Government solidly behind the movement to support American shipping, the success of an adequate privately owned merchant marine is definitely assured.

THE SUPREME COURT.

Presidents of the United States are responsible for the character of the Supreme Court. It has fallen to the lot of some Presidents to make over the court within a four-year term. Such was the experience of President Taft. He appointed five justices and promoted Associate Justice Edward D. White to be Chief Justice. It is a coincidence that he should have appointed Charles E. Hughes, who recently succeeded him as Chief Justice, to the supreme bench.

In the brief period that President Harding occupied the White House he appointed four Supreme Court justices, while during the six years of President Coolidge's administration but one change was made, the appointment of Justice Stone. President Hoover has already been called upon to name a new Chief Justice, and the untimely death of Justice Sanford requires him to make a second appointment. President Hoover's selection of justices may have as profound an effect on the highest court in the land as did those of the lamented President Taft.

No other changes in the membership of the Supreme Court are believed to be imminent; but three justices are eligible for retirement, and Justice Holmes has just celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday. Justice Van Devanter and Justice Brandeis are beyond the retirement age. Within two years Justices Sutherland and McReynolds will be eligible to go into retirement if they so desire. Justice Butler will meet the retirement regulations in January, 1933. Justice Stone is the only member of the court who will not become eligible to leave the bench with full pay during the term of President Hoover.

In filling the first vacancy that occurred during his administration President Hoover selected the most eminent jurist available. In spite of the opposition that developed in the Senate the American people are well pleased with that choice. No problem of his administration has been given more serious attention by Mr. Hoover than the strengthening of the judiciary. His appointments to the district courts show his keen appreciation of the importance of the judicial system in American life. When he is called upon to select members of the most powerful court in the world that responsibility is not taken lightly. If a new majority is to take its place on the supreme bench during the Hoover administration, the people may rest assured that it will consist of the most able and conscientious jurists in the country.

SUGAR TARIFF FUTILITY

From the Wall Street Journal.

In the past week the Senate voted to put an increased tariff on sugar. The proposed rate for raw sugar testing 96 degrees is 2 cents a pound for imports from Cuba and 2.5 cents on that from other parts of the world. This contrasts with the House proposal for 2.4 cents a pound on Cuban sugar and 3 cents for that from other parts of the outside world. Sugar from the outlying territories and possessions would remain as now, duty free. This proposal is not for raising revenue but for protection to a weak industry, but whether that industry would profit by either proposed rate is, to say the least, open to debate.

For years sugar has been one of the footballs in the game of tariff legislation. Neither side in the game has seemed to be playing it for the welfare of either the people who produce or those who consume the commodity. The Payne-Aldrich act of August, 1909, made the tariff on world imports of raw sugar 1.685 cents a pound. The Underwood act of October, 1913, reduced the rate to 1.256 cents. The Fordney-McCumber act of 1922, which is the existing law, raised the duty to 2.2 cents a pound which, with the 20 per cent differential to Cuba, makes imports from that country dutiable at 1.76 cents.

Should either the Senate or House rates, or even a compromise between them, be enacted the price of sugar should go higher. On the face of this it might be assumed that the farmers who raise sugar beets would receive a corresponding benefit. But the experience of the past is against that assumption. If the difference in the commodity price index is considered the farmers receive considerably less per ton for their beets now than when the Fordney-McCumber act went into effect and even less than the average of the five years ended with 1913. Import statistics show one of the main reasons:

Sugar from the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands comes in duty free. Those countries are natural sugar producers while in the United States it is an artificial industry. In the five years between 1909 and 1913 imports from those countries averaged 1,954,000,000 pounds; in 1923—the first full year of the Fordney-McCumber law—they amounted to 2,458,000,000 pounds and in 1929 stood at 4,290,000,000. There are other reasons why the farmers have not realized the increased tariff rate in the price of their beets, but one thing at a time. This of itself is sufficient to show how futile it is to attempt to make sugar production an important and profitable part of agriculture. No matter how high the tariff may be raised, the experience of the past shows that other than American farmers receive the benefit.

ON THE BEACH.

The white capped waves break on the shore,
The bathers shout and shriek with glee.
With pail and spade a child of four
Is playing at the nursemaid's knee.
All this occurred long years before.
When we are gone all this will be.

Among the idlers on the beach
Are women fair and men of fame.
No doubt they moralize and preach
And lay great stress on wealth and name.
But in the years they'll never reach
Will other people do the same.

The ocean waves will still roll on,
Young voices here will shout with glee.
In centuries after we are gone,
This scene will oft repeated be.
Men, women fair will gaze upon
And many a happy child they'll see.

The summer birds return again
Though we from earth must disappear.
We go, but all our joys remain;
We pass, but youth is always here.
And all we've gathered they shall gain
Who follow on year after year.

Small Things Seem Great To Small Creatures

By ROBERT QUILLEN

At a point on the river bank where converging paths led the creatures to drink, a coon and a turtle stopped to exchange words.

"It is my right to drink first," said the turtle.

"Who do you think you are?" asked the coon. "And how do you get that way? I rate above you."

"What utter absurdity," cried the turtle. "I was hatched before your great-great-grandfather saw daylight. And a blow that would break your back wouldn't disturb my digestion. What is more, I can lay eggs, and I am related on my father's side to the distinguished serpent family that bamboozled the first woman and is used in sacred writings as a synonym for wisdom."

"Blah!" said the coon politely. "Is the dry leaf important because it fell from a great tree. Can you climb a tree, by the way?"

"No," confessed the turtle, "but——"

"Can you catch a fish and wash it?"

"No, but I——"

"Can you scratch the back of your neck? Can you wash your face? Can you grow coats for freshmen?"

"I can't," said the turtle, "but——"

"Then have the good manners to step aside," said the coon, "and give precedence to your betters. On your way, hard-shell; on your way."

Thus the coon and the turtle—foolish, ignorant creatures—exhibited their vanity.

In another part of the world a college professor and a mechanic locked bumpers at a street crossing and climbed out of their flivvers to exchange compliments.

"You should have given me the right-of-way," said the professor. "I am educated. I can read Latin and Greek and speak five languages. I know botany, astronomy, geology, chemistry, history and biology, and I'm a wow in math."

"The—well, the dickens you say," remarked the mechanic. "Can you lay brick? Can you splice a rope? Can you wire a house for electricity? Can you build a radio set? Can you adjust your carburetor? Can you build a cabinet? Can you cook? Can you clean fish? Can you mend your typewriter?"

"Certainly not," said the professor, "but——"

"You're a dud," said the mechanic. "Don't argue with better men. On your way, ignorance."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL VOICES A PICTURE PEEVE.

Dear Editor:

I am writing in to inquire if you or any of your readers can remember when there was action in moving pictures. It has been a long time since anything of that nature was seen in the movies, but there muset be some people who can remember that far.

I mean away back before the talkies, when the hero, dashing up the mountainside on horseback to rescue the beautiful heroine, who was battling with a gang of desperadoes, never had time to stop and go into a theme song, and when the said heroine, before plunging into the raging cataracts to escape the local Lon Chaney, never cleared her throat and took ten minutes out for a song plug.

* * * *

There was a time, unless my memory betrays me, when a movie fan went into a movie house for a little excitement. The movie moguls used to assume that he went to a picture show for some stirring drama and not for a demonstration of how Hollywood performers have come along vocally. It was the average man's retreat from the every-day things of life, and this included all forms of yodeling, voice-throwing and major examples of acute laryngitis.

* * * *

He went to the movies to be thrilled, not to be sung to sleep. He wanted action, and nothing would have ruined his visit more than a remote suspicion that the plot would be dropped for a half-hour or so while the director tried out a couple of promising young song-writers.

* * * *

Even the suspicion that the red-blooded hero could sing would have been a terrible blow. The audience liked to believe that he would have preferred death to a tenor solo at any stage of the story.

* * * *

Can you imagine Bill Hart, for instance, pulling his galloping horse up in front of the Bar-X Ranch just in time to keep the Eastern school mistress from a fate worse than death, and then coming down into the spotlight for a touching number entitled "Harvest Moon, I Want You?"

* * * *

I have been trying to keep up my enthusiasm for the movies since the talky craze came in, but I am having a tough battle. Not that I don't like the talkies. Kept within bounds, they are a great improvement over the old silent films, but some of the directors are proceeding under the idea that all the world loves a conversationalist and that the test of a great dramatic work is whether it can be acted over the telephone.

* * * *

The picture magnates put me into a particularly heavy sleep with their attempts to put over musical comedies by picture. Nothing is so impersonal as a beauty chorus on the screen, and my idea of the height of boredom is sitting through one of those cinema spectacles where droves of dancing girls perform amid elaborate settings that you wouldn't like even if they were good. It is no more possible to feel any interest in a beautiful show-girl on a screen than it is to get hysterical over an oil painting of a bottle of champagne.

And a snappy dance arranged by Max Copadoop, the boy wonder of musical comedy ensembles, isn't my idea of moving picture action and suspense.

Still, I may be wrong.

Yours peevishly,
ELMER TWITCHELL.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

One Who Felt Russia's Red Terror Shudders at Communist Demonstrations Here.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I happened to be downtown last Thursday afternoon when the Communist demonstration started. I didn't go near it, not for fear, but because to watch it from afar was indeed almost too much for me. Such even as it was, it made me shudder.

It reminded me of my life in Russia before and after the revolution; of those terrible days of the Red Terror; bloodshed, arrests, abuse and destruction of everything that was sacred to most of us. For a moment I thought I was back "home," if I may say so. I can't say I do not understand what the Communists want; indeed I do, as every Russian who went through as much as I did, and much more, knows. Here is the hand and the underground work of the bolsheviks of once great Russia.

Wherever they go, and wherever they get, troubles begin. It is not enough for their devilish aims that once a big and fine country, as Russia was, is ruined and gone down. It is not enough that three-quarters of the population are dying through starvation in that country. Kill, steal and ruin is their motto—ruin not only in their own country, but everywhere.

Many Russians remember, I am sure, Lenin's first appearance in Petrograd. Oh, why were we so near-sighted at the time! With true bolshevik impudence, he took for himself a former Russian ballerina's palace (palace, mind you, not somebody's humble home), and the spreading of poison began. How many times did we pass by, in a carriage or on foot; never did we pay any attention to what he had to say. He looked too small, too insignificant—but try to measure what a terrible menace and curse his borrowed teachings became.

All he said at first were things simple enough for any simple soul to understand. To some deserter, who shamelessly ran away from the trenches, when they needed him most, just because "his village was too far for a German to reach it," Lenin would say something like this: "What time is it? Oh, you have no watch. But why don't you go and get yourself one? Look at all the jewelry stories; they have hundreds of them. Surely you have a right to one!" Or, to another: "You are tired of war? Go home then to your village. Nobody is going to punish you for that. If you leave the trenches, and the others do, there won't be anybody for the Germans to fight with, and there will be no war." And so the "Soviet paradise" was created, and still exists.

Every true citizen of this country must feel more than bitter watching such demonstrations of the Communists as I saw last Thursday—watching them stir up their own bolshevik porridge in an American pot. Why let them do it? Take Russia as a real living example and a warning.

The bolsheviks do not like America as it stands. They want Karl Marx's ideas to flourish in the American soil. Let them take their ideas back to where they came from. Put them all on board a train for New York, and send them to the Soviets—to their ideal bolshevik "paradise," which they are talking so much about. Give them a real holiday trip, free, and you would gain at the end, believe me, sir. Only cruel reality, such as exists in Russia now, can bring them back to their senses.

EUGENIA MADDEN.

No More Honesty? Certainly There Is—Clodomiro Ruiz Gets His Reward.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A smashing refutation of the thought, often expressed, that there is little honesty left in this world, was made here the other day when a poor taxicab driver found and returned to a woman $45,000 worth of bracelets, necklaces and rings, glowing with diamonds, pearls and emeralds. For his honesty he received a $5,000 reward. In returning the gems he had no assurance that any reward would be forthcoming.

It was fortunate that Clodomiro Ruiz—for that was his name—was fated to find the gems. And here is why, in his own words, which indicate something of the real reward in store for him and his family:

"My wife has been sick ever since we came here from Porto Rico. We have talked about going back, but there are the doctor's bills, and it is hard to make enough money to save any by driving a cab. We will all go back to Porto Rico. I will buy a little farm and the children can play there instead of on the streets of New York. My wife will get well in that climate." R. J. CONWAY.

New York City, March 8.

Plenty of Roads to Heaven Through Washington Churches.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: According to published reports, there are 30 different religious denominations in Washington, with 210 edifices. Episcopalians take the lead with 38 churches, Catholics, 29; Methodist Episcopal, 28; Baptists, 26; Presbyterians, 20.

Many of these churches have charitable annexes and asylums, but the most conspicuous of these auxiliaries appears to be fostered by the Catholics, who support infant asylums, male and female, orphan asylums and homes, and provide clothing and food for their needy.

Washingtonians have no excuse if they fail to land among the angels.

Wuxtry! Pedestrian to Have Some Rights!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Glory hallelujah; Our greatest city has wakened to the fact that pedestrians have some rights. It is announced that New York is to arrange her traffic lights so that there will be a period when pedestrians can cross the streets without risk of death or injury from an automobile coming from any direction whatever.

How long do you think it will take for this idea to penetrate the minds of our traffic officials here in Washington? JAY WALKER.

GERMAN DEBT PLAN EXPLAINED BY MILLS

$193,936,765 Due U. S. for Cost of Rhineland Occupation Army.

(Associated Press.)

Ogden Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, estimated yesterday before the House ways and means committee that Germany owed the United States $193,936,765 for the cost of the American Army of Occupation maintained in the Rhineland after the Armistice.

He also estimated that the claims of American citizens against Germany would amount to $290,637,878 additional.

Mr. Mills' testimony was given in placing before the committee an explanation of the agreement worked out for the settlement of the claims. He said that in view of the Young plan for reparations settlements between the Allies and Germany the United States had agreed to cut its Army occupation charge down by 10 per cent and to accept installment payments of the whole amount due at the rate of $15,700,000 in German currency for 37 years and $9,700,000 for fifteen years thereafter.

The arrangement he said is entirely independent of countries other than the United States and Germany, though the amounts to be transferred under it had been settled in the general reparations agreement.

"The executive branch of the Government believed that it was wiser and more consistent for us to refrain from such a course (joining in the Young plan collection machinery and international bank organization), Mr. Mills said, "and to look to Germany directly for the payment of the amounts due us."

Mr. Mills recommended congressional approval of the agreement and said that its effect would be final liquidation of the claims of the United States against Germany.

Plans for Control Of Floods Finished

$35,000,000 Are Awaited by Engineers Before Work Is Begun.

(Associated Press.)

The Army Engineers are ready to proceed with $35,000,000 of flood control construction along the main stem of the Mississippi River as soon as Congress makes the money available.

Selecting work not involved in the controversy over the merits of the Jadwin plan, the Engineers have virtually completed all plans and specifications and their field forces are ready to go to work after the pending appropriation bill is passed.

Coincident with this announcement, Secretary Hurley made known yesterday that condemnation proceedings will be brought immediately to obtain levee and floodway rights across railroad and State highway lines in the Bonnet Carre floodway in Louisiana.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

DO you suffer from an inferiority complex? Are you browbeaten at home? Are you lacking in courage?

Do you nurse the desire to be able to pound your fist on the table and talk confidently and unafraid to your fellow men? Do you envy Lindbergh? Do you feel that after all it is not courage you lack, but simply a conservatism that comes with age and responsibility?

Above all, have you the constant dread that some day your wife will learn of your weakness and hold you in contempt?

Men, there is a way to be saved.

* * * *

IT is seldom that such an opportunity as this affords itself, and no time should be lost in taking advantage of it.

If you are suffering from any one of the disabilities named above, there is only one thing to do.

Get in your car about 9 o'clock in the morning and drive to Thomas Circle. When you get the green light close your eyes, grit your teeth and go.

It is, gentlemen, the whirling dervishes at their wildest abandon; it is the circle of death; it is the remaking of men. Those who are already brave come out of it nervous wrecks; those who are timid are prepared to fight a wildcat.

* * * *

ABOVE all, it is one of life's greatest monotony breakers. This business of doing the same thing day in and day out, with nothing to interrupt the even course, is unnerving and soon makes one a grouch.

You want to join the Thomas Circle Club. It will help you whether your ailment is lack of courage or just a revolt at the sameness of things. You will start off every day as a new man.

There are rigid rules and regulations for this game, and its popularity is spreading so fast that in a few days it will be hard to get in.

First, all the cars are stopped on an even line, either at the Massachusetts avenue approach or that of Vermont avenue or Fourteenth street. A figurative line is drawn all around the circle touching the six approaches.

Then with all the cars facing each other, snorting and angry at their leash, the light shows green. Bang! They're off at each other's neck, and from then on it is a sight to be seen.

* * * *

PANICKY, hysterical men with their hair standing on end, race madly about with determined, wild-eyed, fiendish men pursuing them. Around and around they go, oh where they will stop nobody can know. Its the old dare-devil loop-the-loop that they used to have in the circus and the loop-the-gap all in one.

The winner is the one who gets out of the ring first.

We don't like to boast but we've gotten it down pretty good and can now get out after but six times around. There is a science to the thing, you see.

The best way is to approach from the west on Massachusetts avenue. When you stop at the line point the nose of your car at an angle slightly off the monument. Then when you get the signal go at full speed to this point of the circle, looking neither to the right nor to the left. Now you have the inside track. Make a sharp 30-degree turn and head with all your might and main for the drug store. There you attain the outside track. Turn sharply to your left then and proceed cautiously along the walk, hugging the outside line until you reach the eastern continuation of Massachusetts avenue—then run for all you are worth.

It is not fair to turn around and come back to try it again the same morning. But it is a great game. There will never be any serious discontent in this town as long as there is such sport available as that.

New Haven, Conn., March 10 (A.P.).—Judge Edwin S. Thomas granted Prof. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, of Yale Divinity School, permission to appeal from a United States district court's decision refusing him citizenship because he could not take up arms unless he believed the cause was just.

HAITIAN PRESIDENCY PLAN MEETS FAVOR

Selection of Neutral Candidate for Office Must Be Accomplished.

PEOPLE'S CHIEF OPPOSES

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, March 10 (A.P.).—A general feeling of satisfaction with the plan of the Hoover commission involving selection of a neutral and nonpolitical candidate for the provisional presidency was apparent in opposition circles today.

The only newspaper appearing this morning refrained from comment on the commission's statement, but the evening papers devoted much space to comment and analysis.

The palace was the scene of numerous conferences during the day. It is generally felt in Haitian circles that American withdrawal will be accomplished within a year except for certain financial supervision and a small commission of American garde officers.

Detailed plans covering the election of delegates from the various districts who in turn will assemble at the capital to choose a candidate for election to the presidency by the Council of State must await the return of the Hoover commission which left Hinche for Cape Haitien this morning.

Among the new names suggested for the delegate's choice for provisional presidency were those of Judge Vilain and Eugene Roy, former president of the government clearing house. Villain comes from Jeremie.

The People's party, headed by Gen. Emmanuel Thezan, forms the only group which has not agreed with the commission's plan in principle. At a meeting yesterday Thezan attacked the confederated groups, telling his peasant and labor following that the others represented only the rich and would despoil the lower classes.

Cap Haitien, Haiti, March 10 (A.P.).—The Hoover investigating committee, learning by telephone that President Louis Borno was attempting to break his promise of adherence to the commission's plan for a provisional government and legislative elections, tonight telephoned to Port-au-Prince warning the President to keep his word. The commissioners told him that he must take all the consequences, political and personal, if he refused.

Their plan, officially made public with President Hoover's approval yesterday, provided that President Borno, who has been strongly attacked by the groups opposing American occupation, should serve out his term, which ends May 15. On that day the council of state would elect a provisional president.

Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, said yesterday he believed the Hoover Haitian Commission was taking the right steps in proposing replacement of the American military high commissioner in Haiti with a civil representative under a new provisional government.

"The commission is making progress along the right lines," the Idaho senator said, in commenting on press dispatches from Haiti.

"The great object is to get out of Haiti, and as speedily as we can with honor to the United States and justice to Haiti."

Double Onslaught Waits Labor on Coal Mines and Unemployment.

LLOYD GEORGE IN LEAD

London, March 10 (A.P.).—The British Labor government is facing a double onslaught in the House of Commons tomorrow on amendments to its coal-mines bill and its handling of the unemployment problem.

David Lloyd George, Liberal party leader and former prime minister, opened the Liberal attack today, asserting that J. H. Thomas, lord privy seal and minister in charge of the unemployment problem, had taken a narrow and timid view of his responsibility.

Citing figures that showed an increase in the number of unemployed of more than 400,000 since Labor took office, he declared that "the time has come for a very candid and fearless review of the whole position."

He said that the House could not escape its responsibility and that England's failure year after year to cope with unemployment was making a bad impression abroad.

Meanwhile, the House of Commons lobbies were buzzing with talk to the effect that the government might be defeated during the voting on some of the amendments to its coal-mines bill, which comes before the House tomorrow night.

On February 27, Prime Minister MacDonald, by a great personal effort, won a victory on one of the principal sections of the bill in the face of a concerted Tory and Liberal attack. The vote was 280 to 271, and the government was saved by the action of several Liberals who abstained from voting despite their leaders' calls for party discipline.

MRS. A. R. SHEPHERD TO BE BURIED IN CITY

Widow of Former Governor of District Is Survived by Seven Children.

ILL FOR SEVERAL YEARS

Mrs. Alexander R. Shepherd, widow of the former Governor of the District, who died yesterday after a long illness, will be buried tomorrow afternoon in Rock Creek Cemetery. Services will be held at 3:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Francis D. Merchant, 15 Grafton street, Chevy Chase.

Mrs. Shepherd was born here in 1842 of a distinguished Connecticut family. She was educated in the public schools and was married at 19 years of age. When she was 30 her husband was made Governor of the District under the Territorial form of government.

During his tenure of office the couple was famed for hospitality. In 1880 Mrs. Shepherd accompanied her husband to Mexico, where he was interested in mining operations. For 22 years the family resided in Mexico. Gov. Shepherd died there in 1902.

Soon after his death Mrs. Shepherd returned here and has since lived in the District. Later she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Walter M. Brodie, and for the last few years has been living with Mrs. Merchant. She became ill a few years ago and had spent most of her time since then in a wheel chair.

Mrs. Shepherd is survived by seven children, all of whom were born in Washington and reared in Batopilas, Mexico. They are: Mrs. E. A. Quintard, Mrs. Brodie and Mrs. Merchant, of Washington; Mrs. R. S. Wagner, of Philadelphia; Alexander R. Shepherd, jr., of Washington; Grant Shepherd, of Charleston, S. C., and John C. Shepherd, of Batopilas, Mexico. She also leaves ten grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren. A sister, Mrs. Andrew C. Bradley, of this city, also survives.

Mrs. Shepherd was a member of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: To any one familiar with Connecticut avenue the change of seasons on this thoroughfare is indicated by a number of things. Just now you would know it was spring from the extravagantly filled flower carts on every corner, from the activity in making new shops ready for occupancy, from the gayly printed frocks showing in the windows, from the strange new hats attracting the attention of passersby in the windows where they are displayed.

The hats are not really strange but they surely are different and, oh, so smart, when seen on the head!

Your last year's clothes won't do this year. You may as well put them in the discard and start all over. You simply can't make them look like the spring of 1930, any way you figure. There are so many moderately priced frocks and hats everywhere, that no matter what your budget for this purpose may be, you will be able to keep in step with the fashion parade to your satisfaction.

Distinctive Frocks At Betty Hanna's

—are shown this week in an unusually comprehensive selection. You can not find these particular models duplicated anywhere in town. The prices are less than you might expect, too. If that is a matter of no importance to you, you will enjoy special pleasure in choosing your favorites strictly according to preference. As usual there are certain creations which are ordered again and again in various materials. This spring it seems to be a princess model with puffed sleeves and a little cape effect. There is also a lovely blue crepe street costume with its own separate cape wrap. Betty Hanna, 1613 Connecticut avenue.

Days of Delight At Elizabeth Arden's

—await every fastidious woman, who likes to be perfectly groomed, and to select at leisure all those accessories to the toilette which make her satisfied and happy.

The salon at 1147 Connecticut avenue occupies two floors in the new Elizabeth Arden Building. It is equipped most luxuriously for physical exercise, for special baths and massage, as well as for the face treatments which have made this name famous all over the world.

Elizabeth Arden preparations are supreme. No one will argue that. Do see the gorgeous French lingerie recently arrived, the silk purses embroidered in petit point, chiffon handkerchiefs for sport and evening.

Photographs of Children Always Attract Us

—especially when they bear the signature of Underwood & Underwood. Since this famous firm brought out the double camera, photographs of children have a new standard to attain. Stop by and see the photographs on display in Underwood & Underwood's today. The window shows an exhibit of recent pictures of young mothers and children. In the center is the most adorable picture of a young matron you know and her little baby. The camera has caught them in a pose so natural that you except both mother and child to laugh out loud the next moment.

Underwood & Underwood take pictures in the home, if you prefer, so that you are shown in the environment to which you are accustomed. This is important in photographing children, for if they are not self-conscious the battle is half won, and as every one knows the charm of infants is their guilelessness and simplicity. To transfer this quality to a portrait is possible through the double camera, which Underwood & Underwood use exclusively. This camera works so fast that the most fleeting expressions are caught as though by magic.

What Do You Think of This

—as morning news? Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue, the shop I have told you of so often, having such charming frocks at small prices, announces a special event to continue until March 15. You may select your choice from a large variety of models at $15.65 each. This is way below any price named at this shop up to this time. Of course the frocks in this collection have sold formerly for $19.75 and $22.50 and some even higher, so you know what to expect.

Surely every woman and girl in Washington will want one of these attractive spring frocks. The colors are too lovely! Remember to go in today or tomorrow, although the event continues until March 15.

Affectionately,

Bab

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Mrs. Anderson Produces Pair Of Playlets

Capital Society Leader Is Expected to Be in City Soon.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WITH Mrs. Larz Anderson promising to spend the spring months in Washington, her friends in the Capital are hoping that they may share with her friends in Boston the opportunity of seeing one or the other—or both—of two charming playlets which Mrs. Anderson is producing. One, "Little Madcap's Journey," a Christmas play, was put on in Boston in the holiday season and the other, an adaptation of Hans Christian Anderson's "The Little Mermaid," is to be presented there on Saturday.

Mrs. Anderson, much of whose time is spent in globe trotting, was in Washington for a few weeks earlier in the winter but is now in Boston to remain until after her play is produced. However, she expects to return some time next week. "Little Madcap's Journey," like "The Little Mermaid," must be an adaptation, for its music is by no less famous a personage than Julia Ward Howe, author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." The other is also a musical show, with Mrs. Gulesian, a well-known Boston musician, as the composer.

A woman who plays a demanding role in society, who is interested in clubs and philanthropic organizations and who is an indefatigable traveler, Mrs. Anderson finds time to develop a versatile talent for literature. Although I had not heard of her before as a playwright—or even as an adapter of plays—she has several volumes of travel tales to her credit, and a new one, "Circling Africa," is just about to be issued. This deals with her own travels and her husband's on the Dark Continent. In "Presidents and Pies," Mrs. Anderson has contributed a volume of memoirs dealing with life in Washington over a 25-year period and treated from the point of view of one who has lived in half the capitals of Europe. She also has many children's books to her credit.

Mr. Anderson was at one time United States Ambassador to Japan and earlier Minister to Belgium, the two missions crowning several years of service in the Diplomatic Corps in various European stations. Beside their great house in Massachusetts avenue, the Andersons have an estate, Weld, at Brookline, Mass., where they spend a great deal of time. Indeed, they are so fond of Weld that frescoes of its beautiful gardens by a famous artist deck the walls of one of the apartments—the dining room, if memory serves—of their town house.

Several times this house, which is one of the show places of Washington, once one passes the forbidding great gates into the courtyard, has been occupied by foreign missions a-visiting in the Capital. And I once heard an official of the State Department remark that, while conditions beggared description in some of the houses offered to Uncle Sam for entertainment of distinguished foreign guests, the Anderson house attained perfection in every detail of equipment and that there was nothing which Mrs. Anderson overlooked in preparing for the comfort of her guests. Before her marriage she was Miss Isabel Perkins, a daughter of the late Commodore Perkins, of Boston.

Mrs. Henry Winfield Watson, wife of Representative Watson, has discontinued her Tuesday at home for the remainder of the season.

Deputy Chief of Staff Arrives in Capital.

Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, newly appointed deputy chief of staff, has arrived in Washington to relieve Maj. Gen. Briant A. Wells, and is at the Metropolitan Club for several weeks until Mrs. Brown arrives from Boston.

Mrs. John Allan Dougherty has gone to Boston to attend a dinner given by the China Child Welfare Society, at which she will speak on her recent trip to China and her work in establishing child welfare centers in various Chinese cites. Mr. Andrew J. Peters, formerly Mayor of Boston, is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, and among those serving on the committee for the dinner are Gov. Allen of Massachusetts, Bishop William Anderson, Mr. Allan Forbes, Mrs. J. L. Grandin, Mr. Stephen H. Phillips, Mr. Everette O. Fisk and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Tweed, of Montauk, N. Y., are now at the Mayflower. Mrs. Tweed is Michael Strange, former wife of John Barrymore.

Easter Ball Planned By Junior Bachelors.

The Junior Bachelors will give a ball at the Willard on Easter Monday evening, April 21, at 11 o'clock. Only the younger bachelors will be subscribers to this dance, organized by Mrs. Richard Henry Lynn, the girls being invited as guests of the individual cavaliers. A small group of young—very young—married women will be chaperons.

Mrs. Edward C. Finkenstaedt entertained a company at luncheon yesterday at the National Woman's country Club. Mrs. Ralph Worthington also was a luncheon hostess at the club.

Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, sr., of New York, who is spending the early spring in Georgia, has accepted membership on the advisory council of the board of governors of the National Woman's Country Club. Mrs. William Bayard Cutting, of New York, mother of the senator from New Mexico, is the other New York representative on the advisory council.

MRS. WARREN ROBBINS, who is making a ten-day visit to Paris to be with her father who has been ill. She will return to Washington the middle of March. Mrs. Robbins is the wife of Mr. Warren Delano Robbins, U. S. Minister to Salvador, and ceremonials officer at the White House.

Men Organize To Aid Women Fight Dry Act

Capital Bachelors Join Movement Against Prohibition.

A masculine auxiliary to the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform was formed yesterday at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Demarest Lloyd, at which Senator Millard E. Tydings and former Senator James W. Wadsworth, jr., were the speakers. Some of Washington's most distinguished bachelors attended the meeting and signed up to help the women boost prohibition reform.

In New York, Mr. Charles H. Sabin, jr., son of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, who launched this woman's movement to bring about modification of the present laws and who is national president of the organization, is following in his mother's footsteps. He has organized the "Crusaders," an association of young men, who are backing the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Although the Washington branch of this organization has not yet been formally organized, preliminary meetings have been held on several occasions at the home of Miss Bell Gurnee and more recently Mrs. Charles Parker Stone, formerly Miss Frances McKee, has been holding meetings for the organization of the younger set in support of a movement started by their mothers. Eventually it is expected that national headquarters for the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform will be established in Washington.

Mrs. Alice Van Leer Carrick not only knows her antiques and their hiding places, but has a happy gift of expression which conveyed her enthusiasm on the subject to a large and eager audience assembled in the small ballroom at the Willard yesterday afternoon.

Illustrated with slides, Mrs. Carrick's talk was one of the most interesting given in the series sponsored by the Junior League. Referring to antique collecting as the only honest form of gambling she knew, Mrs. Carrick told of her adventures in furnishing "Next to nothing house," which she calls her home in Hanover, because of the small amount of money spent in furnishing it with rare old antiques collected in New England.

The next lecture on Monday afternoon, March 17, will be given by Prof. Lindsay Rogers, his subject being "Anglo-American Relations and the Politician."

Mrs. John F. Wilkins left Washington yesterday for a fortnight's stay in Aiken, S. C. Miss Katherine Wilkins, who is visiting in Florida, will not return for three weeks.

The Rev. Jules A. Baisnee, Ph. D., of Catholic University, will be the guest speaker this afternoon at the Willard from 4 to 6, France being his subject. The lecture is given under the patronage of a group of prominent matrons and the honor guest will be Mrs. James Carroll Frazer. Clara Isabelle Boone, is chairman of the committee in charge of the teas.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shelton will be joined in their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel about April 1 by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Paul Weston, who have been passing some time in Coral Gables, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Weston will pass a short time here before going to New York, where they will make their home. Mrs. Weston was Miss Judith Shelton.

Swiss Secretary To Leave for Poland.

Mr. Walter Rufenacht, First Secretary of the Swiss Legation, will leave Washington on Friday for New York, whence he will sail on Saturday on the S. S. Bremen for Europe. He will go first to Berlin to visit his father, Swiss Minister to Germany, and then to Warsaw, Poland, where he is to be stationed.

Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, wife of Brig. Gen. Keefer, has returned from a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Terrell, in San Antonio, Tex. She also visited Mrs. J. H. Bryson at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Mrs. P. de M. Barbey, of Brookline, Mass., is making her annual visit to Washington and is staying at the Carlton Hotel.

Mrs. John Irwin Marshall, of Highland Park, Ill., and Mrs. Charles Carr Clark, widow of Col. Clark, left yesterday for Highland Park and will be at the Moraine Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Atherton, who have been making their home at the Mayflower, are building a new home at 2416 Massachusetts avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Crain, the latter formerly Miss Helen Young, have returned from their wedding trip in the West Indies, and are visiting Mr. Crain's mother, Mrs. Robert Crain, in Baltimore, before occupying their new home.

Sir Archibald Flower Is in Philadelphia.

Sir Archibald and Lady Flower, with their daughter, Miss Evadne Flower, who have been recent visitors in Washington, are now the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Furniss in Philadelphia. They will go to Boston the end of the week, and after a short stay there will sail for their home in England about the first of April.

Mrs. James L. Whitley, wife of Representative Whitley, of New York, who is now at their home in Rochester, N. Y., will return to the Mayflower the end of the week.

Capital Sees Cancellation Of Functions

Taft Mourning Period Is Cause of Suspension of Activities.

Falling in Lent, the 30-day period of official mourning for former President Taft will cause less confusion than it would at any other season, although there has been a general cancellation of all events of an official nature and much unofficial entertaining.

For example, the program of state functions at the White House will be affected not at all, because it had already been decided to put off until after Easter the several receptions originally planned for the penitential season and those events, including the diplomatic reception, the Cabinet dinner and the reception to the House, which had been postponed with previous disarrangements of the White House schedule. However, the President and Mrs. Hoover are withdrawing from their engagements, including the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. James J. Davis' dinner in their honor, set for tonight, and all members of their official family, with other dignitaries are following suit.

One of the pleasant fixtures of the early spring, the preview of the amaryllis show at the Department of Agriculture greenhouses, to which a goodly company from diplomatic, resident and official groups is always invited, has been canceled as a tribute to Mr. Taft, although the show will be open to the public from tomorrow morning until next Wednesday. The Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Hyde had sent out invitations for an informal reception this morning to mark the opening of the show, but they have been recalled.

The chiefs of diplomatic missions have been prompt, of course, in canceling all festivities planned for the next four weeks. The Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Padilla have announced that the dinner they were to have given tonight in honor of the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Longworth has been given up and have recalled invitations for several other luncheons and dinners planned for the period of mourning. The French Ambassador and Mme. Claudel postponed a luncheon arranged for Sunday and two more set for successive Sundays. The Ambassador of Turkey, Mr. Ahmet Muhtar—to use the simplified form found in the latest diplomatic list instead of the more familiar Ahmed Mouhtar Bey—has recalled invitations for three dinners set for March 21, March 28 and April 4. And the Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter, who returned but yesterday from a short visit in New York, canceled the dinner they were to have given last night in honor of the Ambassador of Spain and Senora de Padilla. The Minister of South Africa and Mrs. Eric Louw had also arranged a dinner for last evening, which was postponed out of deference to Mr. Taft.

Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom have recalled invitations for a dinner on March 14 to meet the German Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz und Gaffron and another on March 22 in honor of the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Ferrara. Dr. and Mrs. Fenton Bradford have cancelled a dinner set for March 20, at which the Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley were to have been guests of honor; and Col. and Mrs. L. B. Kromer, a dinner for Friday in honor of Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, and Mrs. Summerall.

It was, of course, in the cards that the League of Republican Women would postpone its meeting this week, but the Democrats are joining in the tribute to the former Chief Justice, as well and the Women's National Democratic Club has cancelled its weekly dinner on Thursday evening as a gesture of respect. The Ladies of the Senate will not meet today, although they will have their usual luncheon next Tuesday; and the LXXI Club—made up of wives of members of Congress—has postponed a luncheon and bridge party set for Thursday.

Claudel, Toscanini, Will Receive Fellowships at Georgetown.

The French Ambassador, M. Paul Claudel, who has been called by the Rev. Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, "the outstanding poet of the age," and Maestro Arturo Toscanini, whom Dr. Nevils called the greatest of living musicians and the greatest inspiration in the world of music today, will be honored on March 25 by Georgetown University at the founders' day celebration.

On that date Signor Toscanini will be made a fellow of the Francisco de Vico Academy of Music and M. Claudel a will be made a fellow of the James Oyder Randall Academy of Letters.

The fellowship is considered the university's highest honor, and its bestowal excels the conferring of a degree.

Mr. Frank Hitchcock, former Postmaster General, is a guest at the Willard. Mr. Hitchcock was Postmaster General during the Taft administration.

Mrs. A. Davis Ireland, of New York, is passing a few days in Washington at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Howard to Give Last of Talk Series.

Mrs. Georgette Ross Howard will give the last of her "Talks on Current Events" this morning at the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Howard and several others will entertain at luncheon following the talk. Mrs. Howard's guests will be Mrs. W. W. Husband, Mrs. R. Q. Easy to Understand

TEXTBOOKS are often dry and musty. This Educational Course will be found refreshingly different from the usual educational volume. Every book has been written with the reader constantly in mind. Every page is clear and readily understandable by the average person. No attempt is spared to provide books which every one can use to learn without the aid of an instructor.

Every book in this 60-volume set is self-teaching—that is the plan that underlies them all, to make no instructor necessary. Of course, the books are of no value unless you read them with the determination to learn. There is no royal road to knowledge just by letting your eyes run idly over the printed page! But if you have real ambition, then these are books to help you get ahead—these are books which may be of more genuine benefit to you than all four years of formal High School training.

The simplicity of these books is truly amazing. You will be gratified to find them entirely lucid in every way. No subject is kept difficult—all are presented to you so that you can get the most out of them. Just reading these books is educative to an extent that you can not realize unless you try this experiment! Furthermore, every volume is interesting. The type is of a size to make reading easy. The authors have been interested in their subjects, and this makes it certain that those subjects are presented in a delightful, fascinating manner.

What makes some textbooks difficult for the ordinary reader is that essential facts have been left out—such facts to be supplied by the teacher. In this Educational Course every fact is inserted in the text. With attention and determination a thorough grasp can be had of the subjects represented in this course (see the complete list at the right). It is not necessary to ask questions—every question has been foreseen and already answered by the writers who have made this set a marvel of clearness and completeness.

Variety of Subjects

Consider for a moment the wide scope of these sixty books—think just how comprehensive they are! There are 825,000 words in these sixty volumes. They include a wonderful variety of subjects, from history and economics and literature to mathematics, foreign languages and the arts. Even commercial subjects, such as geography and typewriting, are included. You get a substantial foundation in the arts, and an insight into the great world of science. Then there are the handy reference volumes, the alphabetical dictionaries, which give you concise information just when you need it and exactly as you want it.

Four foreign languages—the languages which most English-speaking people desire to learn—are given in this set. These foreign languages are self-teaching in these handy volumes. They may be readily grasped with the aid of these books.

Everything you need is here—this series is compact and complete in itself. There are two volumes of questions and answers (quizzes) with which you may test your knowledge from time to time. There is that excellent general treatise on "How to Study"—this work alone is really worth the entire price of the set in the valuable hints it gives and in the manner in which it enables the average person to study in such a way that he will get the most possible good out of his efforts.

You will find it invaluable to have at hand many of these books which you may not use at first. Though some of the subjects may seem to you apart from your present interests, they will sooner or later come in handy. Every one, today, should have a representative library of reference to which he can turn in search of facts when he requires them. In our modern civilization, with the miracles of modern printing, knowledge is within every one's reach. There is no longer any excuse for any individual to remain in ignorance. Lack of knowledge is not tolerated. Today you must be progressively alert—keep abreast of the times—and maintain a standard of education that is on a par with the knowledge of your fellows.

Prepared by Celebrated Scholars

The authors of these sixty educational volumes were especially chosen to prepare these works so that the average person may readily assimilate their contents. In spite of the sensationally low cost of these books, they have been written by authorities in their various fields. Some of the writers who have helped to make this High School Educational Course possible are:

Professor Carroll Lane Fenton, of the University of Cincinnati; John Cowper Powys, famous lecturer and critic; Joseph McCabe, world famous scholar and author of 180 books; Lawrence A. Barrett, High School instructor of Mathematics; John S. Gambs, High School teacher; Maynard Shipley, President of the Science League of America; Lloyd E. Smith, former college English assistant; Hereward Carrington, New York Scientist; J. Geo. Frederick, commercial expert; Dr. Isaac Goldberg, well-known critic; Murray Sheehan, educator and novelist; Leo Markun, research student; Nelson Antrim Crawford, well-known writer; Clarence Darrow, famous lawyer, etc.

Thus, it is certain that every one of these books is of outstanding excellence. As a reading course this set can not be surpassed—for the price of $2.98 you get 825,000 words of text, nearly a million words! The general edition has been under the direction of E. Haldeman-Julius, famous for his campaigns of popular education, and providing good reading at a price within reach of every one's pocketbook.

Amazing as it sounds it is quite true that $2.98 is full and final payment for all 60 of the books in this High School Educational Course. There are no strings attached to this offer—$2.98 is all you pay. Think how expensive a High School education usually is in comparison—here you get 60 books for no more than one average textbook costs in school. And you dispense with the instructor altogether, you become your own teacher, learning as you read.

Perhaps you have seen previous advertisements of this HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATIONAL COURSE. Before this, you have failed to act—failed to seize this opportunity while it was before you. Delay no longer. Mail the blank today!

NOW you can fill in those embarrassing gaps in your knowledge. Here, in 60 handy volumes which fit your pocket or handbag, you can get the essentials of the usual High School Education for only $2.98. This is positively all you pay—if you use the special order blank below before March 31, 1930.

What do the words, "A High School Education," mean? They mean a thorough grounding in those essentials of modern knowledge which enable a person to be the most efficient in the every-day activities of his work and of his contact with others. When it is required that a person have a High School Education, it is meant that such a person must be equipped with a substantial background of English, History, General Literature, some Languages, Commercial Subjects (Business and Economics), Mathematics, Science and the arts. It is expected that such a person will have his intelligence alert and trained to enable him to learn new things readily, to know where to look for facts not already in his possession: in short, to be a man or a woman aware of those fundamentals which form the basis of every education and of all culture.

Probably you have often felt the lack of knowledge you really ought to have at your command. Perhaps you did not get the most out of your school days, or possibly you were obliged to leave school before you had completed your education. Or your High School training has slipped into the past, and you are "rusty" on many subjects. Whatever the reason for the lack, you feel that the void is there—and you want to fill in the gaps! This 60-volume HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATIONAL COURSE is just the thing for you—it is comprehensive, easily understandable, thoroughly reliable and authentic, and absolutely up to date.

Whether you wish to study High School Subjects for the first time, or whether you merely wish to review your High School Education, you will find these 60 books exactly what you need. Read the list of titles carefully, as listed at the right—and remember, all you pay for all 60 of these splendid books is two dollars and ninety-eight cents!

Everything you need is here to make your spare moments pay dividends! Carry some of these books wherever you go and make your odd minutes count. You will be continually gratified and delighted with the increasing value these books will represent to you. Not only are they educational, but one important explanation of their wide popularity is that they are written so interestingly that they are as fascinating and easy to read as a zestful novel.

NEW ZEALAND TOWN PAYS HONOR TO BYRD

Party's Two Ice-Scarred Ships Prove of Great Interest to Crowds.

POLAR FLIGHT PRAISED

Dunedin, New Zealand, March 10 (A.P.).—The plaudits of civilization were received today by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., and his party after 14 months of exploration in the Antarctic, during which they flew the American flag over the South Pole.

All day crowds swarmed about his two ice-scarred vessels, the Eleanor Bolling and the City of New York, which yesterday entered Dunedin Harbor accompanied by a procession of welcoming vessels.

Not only Byrd but every one of his men who for more than a year braved the hardships and hazards of the Polar regions were warmly greeted by this city of 85,000 which often in the past has sent forth expeditions into that unknown region guarded by a barrier of ice encompassing mountains more than 14,000 feet high. Although Byrd continued today to stress other achievements, popular fancy clung to his heroic flight with three companions over the South Pole.

Flight Took 17 Hours.

This flight, begun November 28, from the Bay of Whales at the base of the great barrier, lasted 17 hours and 39 minutes. With Bernt Balchen at the controls, Byrd's airplane forced its way over mountain tops and circled the South Pole, which is at an elevation of 9,069 feet.

Unable to land at the pole because of the roughness of the terrain, the trimotored plane flew back to the Ross Barrier base camp, refueled and continued on to the Bay of Whales, Little America, Byrd's main camp.

While giving full credit to the courage of the three men who accompanied him on this flight over mountain tops with temperatures far below zero, Byrd directed attention rather to the achievements of Roald Amundsen and Robert F. Scott. Amundsen, he pointed out, reached the South Pole by sled journey December 14, 1911, and the heroic Scott and his party arrived there to learn that only a little more than a month previously Amundsen had placed the banner of Norway first at the goal, ahead of Britain's flag. Scott, with all of his party, perished in a blizzard in returning from the pole.

Rescued Stranded Party.

Tribute was paid also today to the flight by Byrd in which he rescued a stranded geological party whose plane had been destroyed in a terrific storm over a mountain range.

But Byrd himself insisted that the outstanding achievements of his expedition were the exploring of 280,000 square miles of previously unmapped country and the work done by geologists and their scientists.

The Byrd expedition, it is planned, will remain here nine more days before proceeding to New York through the Panama Canal.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

WHEN WILL YOU BEGIN USING THIS NEW OIL?

It is being rumored (and truthfully) that no other American motor oil has been so speedily accepted by motorists. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil has smashed all precedents by its amazing reception . . . And this oil is as unusual as its introduction. Its superiorities are so apparent, that even before its announcement was well under way, literally thousands of new users were appearing at Red Triangle stations.

CONOCO

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

Its name seems to intrigue motorists and much conversation has dwelt on the Germ Process, and the whys and wherefores . . . the story is this: Under exclusive Conoco-owned patent rights, a precious oily essence is added to a superbly fine paraffin base oil. This essence is lacking in all other oils, including the one you are now using. The Germ Process makes possible the metal-penetrating safety factor that we call "penetrative lubricity." And this oil, of all on the market, provides a safer, more positive motor protection, from the time you start the motor until you turn off the ignition.

So . . . when will you begin using this new oil? . . . at the sign of the Red Triangle.

Everyday Habits Cause Acid Poisoning

We may enjoy the things we know "we shouldn't do," but nature makes us pay for the overloading of delicate digestive systems, with heartburn, sick headache, biliousness and temporary constipation.

These are symptoms of "excess acid," always a menace to health. Food curdles into insoluble lumps, gas forms in the digestive tract, and we suffer from heartburn, biliousness or flatulence. Often excess acid, if uncorrected, results in chronic indigestion, ulcers or constipation.

You can correct stomach distress almost at once. The surest and quickest way is Milnesia Wafers—which are pure milk of magnesia in a pleasantly flavored wafer. By chewing Milnesia Wafers or allowing them to dissolve in the mouth the moment symptoms appear, a fine alkaline film is at once deposited over the mouth, stomach and intestinal linings, correcting and protecting them from acid attack. Excess acids are immediately neutralized.

Thousands of physicians and dentists are daily recommending Milnesia Wafers in preference to the old-fashioned liquid form of milk of magnesia because they are more effective, more convenient and less expensive. Milnesia Wafers are also rapidly taking the place of old-fashioned stomach remedies such as soda, indigestion powders and dyspepsia tablets.

Ask your druggist today for the home package of Milnesia at 60c or the convenient "carry" package for vest pocket or purse at 20c.

MILNESIA WAFERS (Milk of Magnesia Wafers)

NOTE TO USERS OF LIQUID MAGNESIIA: We guarantee each Milnesia Wafer to contain magnesium hydroxide corresponding to one tablespoonful of U. S. P. (U. S. Pharmacopoeia) Milk of Magnesia. It is the only tablet containing the genuine hydroxide of magnesia. Try pleasant-tasting Milnesia Wafers just once and you will never go back to the old-fashioned liquid with its chalky taste. Your druggist will gladly refund your money if you are not entirely satisfied.

WILL OF ERLANGER MENTIONS NO WIFE

Testament Declares Theater Magnate Was Unmarried; Kin Are Named

VALUE IS IN MILLIONS

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—The bulk of the estate Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, theatrical magnate, estimated at from $10,000,000 to $75,000,000, is left to his brother and two sisters with no provision for the woman who describes herself as his wife, his will filed for probate today shows. Minor bequests were made to nephews and nieces.

The will, dated October 18, 1927, states that Mr. Erlanger was unmarried, the language of its opening reading: "I, Abraham L. Erlanger, unmarried, of the City, County and State of New York, do hereby make, publish and declare this to be my last will and testament, hereby revoking all other and former wills by me at any time made."

The statement that Mr. Erlanger, known as the "Napoleon of the Theater," was unmarried, added to the mystery created at the time of his death, when Max D. Steuer announced that he was attorney for "Mrs. Erlanger," the producer's widow, in whose arms, he declared Mr. Erlanger died.

Relatives of the late producer declared at the time: "There is no Mrs. Erlanger." Mr. Steuer refused to identify the "widow," but shortly before the will was filed for probate he announced that the identity would be disclosed when "proceedings started"—presumably with the filing of the will.

According to the terms of the will, former Supreme Court Justice Mitchell L. Erlanger, a brother, and Miss May Erlanger and Mrs. Caroline Bergman are the three major legatees. They divide the residue equally. In addition, Justice Erlanger is to receive all his brother's horses, saddles, automobiles, wearing apparel, watches and jewelry.

Mr. Steuer said tonight that his client was formerly an actress, and that her stage name was Charlotte Leslie. He was unable to say, however, in what productions she had appeared.

"I'll give Mr. Erlanger's relatives a reasonable length of time in which to probate the will," he said, "and then, if they don't, I'll start something."

Man Given Seven Years In Dry Agent's Slaying

San Antonio, Tex., March 10 (A.P.).—Joe Hobrecht today was convicted of the murder of Federal Prohibition Agent Charles Stevens and sentenced to serve seven years in the penitentiary. The penalty was fixed by the jury which received the case. Hobrechs and eight others, including Lynn Stephens, alleged head of a State-wide rum ring, were indicted following the ambushing of Stevens on the night of September 24, last, when he and two other prohibition agents were returning from a raid on Stephens' farm in Atascosa County.

The State introduced a statement at Hobrecht's trial in which Hobrecht admitted he was at the scene of the shooting armed with a shotgun, but denying he fired a shot. Altha Harbaugh, sister of Lynn Stephens, was acquitted of a similar charge. Stephens is a fugitive in Mexico.

Girl Arises From Bed To Shoot Husband Dead

Asheboro, N. C., March 10 (A.P.).—Arising from her bed at 2 a. m., today, Mrs. Ora Smith, 22, procured a shotgun and then shot her husband, Archie, 24 years old, farmer, as he lay sleeping. The shot penetrated the heart and death was instantaneous.

Temporary insanity and despondency over ill health were given as the cause by a coroner's jury which made an investigation. It was decided to take Mrs. Smith to the State Hospital for observation.

Behind the Screens

—With NELSON B. BELL—

ELIMINATING the two attractions with which Washington already is familiar, by reason of each being in its second week, the current first-run screen features are conspicuously top-heavy with comedy. "Loose Ankles," at the Earle; "Not So Dumb," at the Palace, and "The Girl Said No," at the Columbia, represent 75 per cent of the new crop and each is a laugh riot.

While Louise Fazenda and Ethel Wales might be expected to repeat earlier triumphs in similar roles as the two spinster aunts in "Loose Ankles," there are two performances in "Not So Dumb" that possibly might not have been quite so confidently expected to be uproariously funny—that of William Holden, as Forbes, the hard-boiled business man, and of Raymond Hackett, as "Willie," the level-headed younger brother of that perpetual talking machine, Dulcy.

Probably the most striking contrasts to their present roles were afforded them in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." You will remember that Mr. Holden appeared as the judge and Mr. Hackett as the young attorney for the defense. There wasn't a laugh in a carload of such parts, which is no doubt why I couldn't think who either one was for the longest time Sunday afternoon.

Reverting momentarily to the Earle, it was a matter of considerable surprise to many others as well as myself to discover the purely lyric quality of Nick Lucas' tenor voice. It is odd the tricks the cameras and microphones can play on those who appear before them—some of diminutive stature appear tall, and vice versa; some with gentle voices become stentorian, and ditto. It is so with Mr. Lucas. He is neither so tall nor so robust, vocally, as you would expect—and none the less pleasing on that account.

One thing about his act the microphones have not altered is his guitar playing. If the vocal star of "Gold Diggers of Broadway" and "Show of Shows" possessed no voice whatever, he still would be a virtuoso on the stringed instrument. In fact, I could do with a great deal more of the instrumental music than he offered Saturday night when I heard him.

A few weeks ago New York was practically agog over three intensely realistic dramas that seemed to establish a new high mark of naturalistic dramaturgy on the part of the cinema in Gotham. One was "Anna Christie," another was "Street of Chance" and the third was "Men Without Women."

The first two Washington has seen. That is to say, "Anna Christie" has finished its run at the Columbia and "Street of Chance," starring William Powell, is now on view at the Metropolitan. It will therefore be of interest to know that "Men Without Women" is to begin its local engagement at the Fox on Saturday of this week, supplanting Lenore Ulric and Charles Bickford in "South Sea Rose" as the new feature to follow "Happy Days."

Although this heroic tale of a crew trapped in a sunken submarine, from which there is no escape, bears the same title as the novel by Ernest Hemingway, author also of "A Farewell to Arms," I am given to understand that the similarity ends there. However, there is further assurance of a reliable nature that John Ford's picturization of "Men Without Women" is so tremendously moving a picture as to insure it the year's gold medal award in the minds of many.

If Mr. Fox's Washington representatives can be wheedled into affording some of us a preview of this much lauded opus, there may be more concerning it in a later column.

Promise or threat—write your own ticket.

It may be true, after all, as has been so often stated, that the difference between a star and an extra is merely a matter of brains. One of the most delightfully droll of the characters in "Not So Dumb" is Van Dyke, the harmless lunatic, impersonated by Donald Ogden Stewart, who here makes his debut in pictures. Mr. Stewart plays his maiden role, so to speak, with the surety of a veteran of the studios and the lots. That, of course, he is not, but perhaps other experience serves as well. In addition to many humorous writings, Mr. Stewart has to his credit a Broadway stage success, "Rebound," current at the Plymouth Theater, in which he appears prominently in support of Miss Hope Williams.

Mr. A. J. "Andy" Sharick, erstwhile managing director of the Rialto Theater, which closed temporarily last Thursday night, has been transferred to important chores to be performed for Universal in Cleveland. A cordial "au revoir" conveys the additional information that he expects to return to Washington for the opening of the Ninth street house, his brief residence in the Capital having quite captured his fancy. Again, here's hoping.

Now that the lime and bone meal are all blown off the lawn, it is the coal bin I'm worrying about!

10,000 Dead Auto Permits in Use

Harland Estimates Large Number Driving on Expired Permits.

Traffic Director William H. Harland estimated yesterday that 10,000 motorists whose three-year operator's permits have expired still are driving on their worthless permits.

Failure to keep a permit up to date is punishable—that is, if you drive with it as authority for doing so—by a fine of from $1 to $300 or imprisonment for not more than 10 days.

There have been 57,782 operating permits renewed since last July 1, but according to Mr. Harland's figures the number which have expired is 23,000 more than this. He estimates that probably 13,000 of the 23,000 may be accounted for by death or removal from the District, but at least 10,000 represent motorists who have failed to renew their permits at the time they expired and still are using the "dead" cards.

While there will not be a special drive to round up users of expired permits, Mr. Harland pointed out that police officers have been instructed to pay especial attention to the expiration dates of permits whenever they have occasion to stop a motorist for violation of a traffic regulation.

Two Squaws Indicted In Death of Artist's Wife

Buffalo, N. Y., March 10 (A.P.).—Indictments charging murder, first degree, were returned today by the county grand jury against Lila Jimerson, 35, and Mrs. Nancy Bowen, Indian squaws from the Cattaraugus Reservation, in the slaying of Mrs. Henry Marchand, wife of the noted artist of the Buffalo Museum of Science staff. The two squaws, arraigned immediately before County Judge F. Bret Thorne, entered pleas of not guilty.

Trial will take place as soon as possible, probably within two weeks, it was indicated at the office of District Attorney G. B. Moore.

104 PERSONS KILLED IN THEATER PANIC

Victims Are Japanese Naval Men Witnessing Film on Capture of Mukden.

MORE THAN 100 INJURED

Seoul, Korea, March 10 (A.P.).—Fire and panic killed 104 persons, most of them small children and their mothers, at the Chinkai naval base in southern Korea today during a celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the capture by Japan of Mukden, Manchuria, in the Russo-Japanese War.

Ignition of a motion picture film, reproducing scenes of the war of a quarter-century ago, which was being displayed before an audience of about 600 in a warehouse at the base, started the fire and resultant panic. Most of those woh died were trapped in the blazing building. More than 100 of those who escaped were injured.

Naval fire fighters prevented spread of the flames to a nearby ammunition dump. The fire lasted from 3 to 5 p. m.

Those gathered in the big warehouse for the patriotic exercises were virtually all Japanese naval officers and men and their wives and children. This was "army day" in the series of quarter-century celebrations of events in the Japanese-Russian conflict, and was so observed throughout the Japanese Empire.

"Navy day" will be celebrated May 27, the anniversary of Admiral Togo's destruction in the Sea of Japan of the powerful Russian Baltic fleet. The Chinkai base overlooks the sea where the great naval battle took place. A monument was erected recently on a hall above Chinkai Bay, where the fleet under Admiral Togo waited for the coming of the Russian ships. The Japanese naval maneuvers last fall were held in these waters.

Tales That Are Told Where Veterans Gather—Now to Be Published in

The Washington Post

One of the strangest phenomena of the World War has been the reluctance of veterans to talk about their experiences—excepting when in the company of those who shared their hardships and dangers and the occasional bright spots of humorous occurrences.

Now the silence is to be broken—veterans themselves will tell of the outstanding memories of happenings in which they participated; in the training camps, on shipboard, in the training areas of France and England and on the field of battle. Short, punchy stories, in the language of the soldier, sailor and marine, giving an intimate glimpse of life as it was in the stirring years of 1917-1918.

Two new double-quick cookies

Grandmother's Sugar Cookies

(Mixing time: 7 minutes)

Remember when you used to slip down the back cellar steps and "swipe" cookies like these from Grandmother's big cookie jar? She had to store them in the cellar to keep them soft and fresh. You can keep them handy anywhere because nowadays they're made with Crisco, a pure, sweet shortening which helps to make them fine flavored and moist—and keeps them so to the very last cookie.

1 cup Crisco
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs, beaten
¾ cup thick, sour milk
½ teaspoon soda
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
(¼ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon nutmeg)

Blend Crisco and sugar, add beaten eggs. Add sour milk with soda dissolved in it and stir in flour sifted with salt. Don't roll dough—drop by spoonfuls on Criscoed pan. Sprinkle with mixture of sugar and nutmeg. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 10 minutes. This makes 50 luscious cookies.

Soft Molasses Cookies

(Mixing time: 10 minutes)

A letter from a man in Ohio tells us that Crisco cookies were left all winter in a summer camp and when found this spring were "amazingly" fresh and sweet. There is something amazing about Crisco's pure sweet flavor and the way it lends its flavor and fresh keeping quality to foods.

1 cup Crisco
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs well beaten
1 cup molasses
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons ginger
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon soda
1 cup hot coffee
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder

Blend sugar and Crisco, add well beaten eggs, molasses, spices and soda mixed with hot coffee. Then add vinegar and beat in the flour sifted with salt and baking powder. Stir well and drop from end of spoon onto Criscoed cookie sheet. Flatten with spatula dipped in water and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 10 minutes. This recipe makes about 65 cookies.

Taste Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor

YOU taste milk. You test eggs. Now taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Then you'll understand why Crisco's own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the taste of your cakes, pies, hot breads, cookies and fried foods.

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

CRISCO was used in the Cooking School recently conducted by this paper

Mrs. Frances Northcross, in The Post Cooking School, made a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she used Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

ONE PACKAGE OF THIS SPAGHETTI

becomes

FOUR quarts of boiling water, one tablespoonful of salt, one package of Mueller's Spaghetti, Macaroni or Elbow Macaroni: in just 9 minutes' boiling this becomes 34 ounces of strength-building, easily digested nourishment.

That's one of the appealing features of Mueller's products—they're so quickly prepared and cook up so light and fluffy, and high in food value. By boiling for 9 minutes you avoid the chance of overcooking, a mistake too often made. If extra tenderness is desired, boil one or two minutes more.

You can treat spaghetti or macaroni just as you would potatoes. Serve it with melted butter, or pour the pan gravy from the meat over it. As a change from potatoes au gratin, serve macaroni au gratin; it is simpler to prepare, and even more delicious. Instead of fried potatoes, have fried egg noodles; it will be a great revelation in tempting goodness.

This tastiness is a direct result of the special scientific methods used in manufacturing Mueller's Macaroni products, which bring out every bit of the natural flavor of the healthful ingredients used.

The selected blend of farina from which Mueller's Macaroni and Spaghetti are made contains the vital elements needed by both children and adults. And, in Mueller's Egg Noodles the selected fresh eggs and choice flour constitute a health food of the highest order.

Ask your grocer for Mueller's. He has it or can get it for you.

There are hundreds of ways in which Mueller's Macaroni products can be prepared, all delicious. Send for our book of recipes in which many special dishes are illustrated in color. No cost or obligation. Just write to

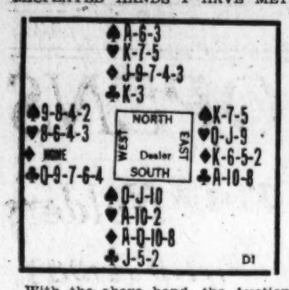
WORK'S BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



With the above hand, the Auction Bridge bidding would be: South, one No Trump, followed by three passes.

The Contract bidding would be: South, one No Trump; North, two No Trumps; South, three No Trumps.

When the hand was played, West led his fourth best Club and Declarer played the King from dummy, that hand having King and one. East took the trick with the Ace and led back the Ten; so the adversaries started off by winning five Club tricks, which saved game.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

When playing a No Trump and holding in dummy King and one, and in closed hand two or three cards lower than the Ten, the King is the correct play from dummy because that is practically the only chance of taking a trick in the suit; but when the closed hand has Jack and two small, a trick is assured by playing small from dummy, whereas the play of the King generally kills all chance of winning a trick in the suit when third hand has the Ace, as in this case.

On the first trick dummy should have played the Trey of Clubs and East probably would have finessed the Ten. South would win and declarer would appreciate that he could count only five sure tricks—the Ace of Spades, the Ace and King of Hearts and the Ace of Diamonds, in addition to his one and only Club trick. Two additional Spade tricks could be won by finesse if West hold the King, and four more Diamonds if East hold the King of that suit. A successful Spade finesse would not insure game, a successful Diamond finesse would; so the latter should be tried.

At trick 2, dummy should be put in with a Heart to lead a Diamond. As long as East does not cover, dummy's lead should be the Jack, Nine and Trey in the order named, South playing the Ten, Eight and Queen. Whenever East plays the King, South plays the Ace; and in any event five Diamond tricks go to Declarer, as the Ace of Spades will give dummy an entry to cash the thirteenth Diamond if East should keep his King until the fourth round. In this way Declarer will make one Spade, two Hearts, five Diamonds and one Club—game.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF March 11 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:15 a. m., and from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m.

The activities and pleasures of youth are favored on this date. Social gains may be expected and a general state of happiness should prevail. Business affairs will remain somewhat at a standstill. Writers will feel inspired and encouraged.

Children born on this March 11 will have well-balanced mentalities, will be fond of home and home-life and will be extremely loyal. They will be determined and fixed in principle, very law abiding and "square shooters."

There are several qualities in your natural make-up which inure to your benefit and which make life pleasant and easy for you. In the first place you can concentrate on everything you undertake from solving a difficult problem to doing some trivial personal affair. You allow yourself to revel in your dreams and fancies, but you never allow them to cause you to "wool-gather" when serious thinking is in order. Genius itself has been called concentration concentrated, and nothing great in this world has ever been accomplished without it.

You are innately courteous at all times to all people—there is nothing which will ever make you forget to act like a lady or a gentleman. The courtesy in your personality brings out the very best—instead of the worst—from every other personality with which it may come in contact. You give a smile and you receive a smile. You possess considerable repose; not a soporific kind, but the kind which brings about a quiet happiness which outward circumstances are powerless to ruffle. You are, in short, captain of your soul and master of your fate.

You know how to be obedient—you can give and take commands in a proper spirit. You respect those in authority, and you are obedient to that which is highest within yourself. You will have many interests outside of your home, but you will never neglect your home duties.

Successful people born March 11: Robert T. Paine, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Jane C. INTERPRETS the MODE

A black crepe ensemble, touches of white crepe de chine and ermine, typical of the new mode in line and length and color. (Courtesy of Drecoll-Beer, Paris.)

Paris, March 10.

THE little house of Ardanse is doing things! It's a matter of real talent, individuality, and the courage of her convictions. Her novelties are really novelties, her silhouettes are real silhouettes, her ideas are ideas—and cleverly executed.

There is, this season, for instance, the Ardanse lace—a lace fragile and lovely, which employs for an all-over design the letters that form "Ardanse"—yet in so subtle a way that you have to really look very closely to distinguish the name. And she has made a magnificent evening dress of this lace, with a huge fan of the same lace, with loose fluttering panels of tulle—the fan, not the dress.

• • • •

And then there is her novel summer fur, which looks exactly like astrakhan—and yet upon close observation proves to be little tightly curled feathers, no less! It's delightful, really, and, of course, lends itself to so many colors, since feathers are not confined to the blacks whites grays and beiges or furs.

And evening gown sleeves—lovely, lovely things, which manage to be graceful and drapy without looking as though they belonged to a negligee! They are always a part of the costume, and very often start just at the elbows, held in place by jeweled bracelets.

• • • •

Some people think that fans are just for hot days! But they just aren't the "fan" type, that's all. Others know what alluring little accessories fans can be and they'd just adore having some new and unusual designs for making them. If you're "that way" about fans, send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, for a leaflet of ideas!

And guess what else there is in the leaflet? Why, handkerchief ideas, of course! Now don't you want one? A leaflet, I mean—there's more than one idea!

• • • •

Black satin, silk and all the crepe family of coats will be very much in evidence this summer—and Drecoll-Beer's unusually lovely black crepe de Chine coat trimmed with ermine that I sketched for you today has a very smart line. The dress has the touches of white at the cuffs and neck as is also very much in vogue at the moment.

Then, there's the weekly Dare fashion letter, in The Sunday Washington Post every week.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

MILK-BORNE SORE THROAT.

SEPTIC sore throat is caused by a milk-borne streptococcus of a particular kind, called streptococcus epidemicus. This streptococcus differs from those other variety of streptococci which cause scarlet fever, erysipelas, rheumatism, pneumonia, tonsilitis in man, and spoiled udder in cows. The finding of streptococcus in milk throws no light on an investigation of septic sore throat unless the search is carried far enough to prove that it is or it is not this particular streptococcus.

Finding that a milk handler has had a sore throat, or that a cow in a herd has a spoiled quarter, likewise means nothing unless the particular streptococcus of septic sore throat is found. Finding this particular coccus in the throat of workers or on their hands, in milk or in the udders of milk cows, does not prove that an epidemic is due to break out, though such a condition does lay a foundation for such an epidemic, and the discovery should put everybody on guard.

These are the conclusions of Dr. W. D. Frost and associates who have studied the subject at the University of Wisconsin for four years. They have had more than 1,000 cows, a great many milk handlers, and many milk farms under observation, and they have examined many thousand specimens of milk. They have found methods of differentiating between this coccus and other streptococci, and now they will try a new method used by Dr. Tunnicliffe to find streptococci of scarlet fever.

They found there was no relationship between ordinary cases of spoiled udder and the cocci in the milk from them, and those cocci which caused septic sore throat. However, septic sore throat is nearly always, if not always, caused from drinking raw milk from an infected udder. The streptococcus of septic sore throat gets into a teat, establishes itself, increases in numbers, and causes a slow inflammatory process, different, however, from abscess of the udder. The coccus gets into the human throat. There are men who are carriers of it. But it has not been shown just how these men infect cows or infect people, for that matter, if they do.

Dr. Frost says the public can be protected against septic throat. Pasteurization does it. So do very careful repeated bacteriological examinations of throats of milkers and of milks. If the cocci are found in a milk, search must be made for the infected cow.

BALTIMORE POLICE TO BID FOR TITLE IN C. U. MEET

11 Bluecoats To Compete In Meet

Talented Police Team Looms as Maryland's Chief Rival.

Many South Atlantic A. A. U. Champions in Line-Up.

TOSSING an obstacle of no mean proportions into the path of Maryland University, the favorite for honors in the open division, the Baltimore Police Department yesterday filed eleven entries for the Catholic University Track Meet to be held tomorrow night in the Brookland Gymnasium.

The Baltimore police trackmen hold the South Atlantic A. A. U. outdoor team championship, having won that title for the third year in succession at the meet held at Central High School Stadium last June.

Among their number slated to compete tomorrow night are Stanley Oster, present 100-yard S. A. champion; Don C. Foote, pole-vault title holder and one of the greatest all-round performers in the history of South Atlantic amateur track athletics; Richard Gwinn, 1928 1-mile champion, and Johnny Walstrum, winner in 1928 of the 100, 220 and broad-jump championships.

Before receiving the policemen's entries yesterday, meet officials had been anticipating a rather easy triumph for Maryland in the open events of the 23-event program. Maryland will have about 30 athletes competing, including Urban Linsey, crack half-miler; Bob Remsburg, quarter-mile star, and Bob Quinn, spring ace, formerly of Tech High School.

Director Griffith was pleased to note the entry of Dan Fahey, winner of the South Atlantic outdoor high hurdles championship the last two years, among those who will compete in the 50-yard low hurdles. Fahey, who lives at Hyattsville, performed successfully for Maryland University and Central High School several years ago.

Others pointed out by Griffith as likely to furnish keen competition in their respective events are De Witt Bennett, George Washington U. freshman, who scaled 11 feet 9 inches in the pole vault at the Oregon State College scholastic meet last spring; Eugene Newton, Baltimore Cross Country Club, who finished second in the last Baltimore-Laurel marathon; John Crouch, Southern Club of Washington, a "dark horse," with an average mark of 52 seconds in the 440-yard dash, and Oscar Gerth, Catholic track captain, who is capable of 16.8 in the high hurdles.

A Lesson on Job At Catholic.

Baseball interest took a sudden jump at Catholic University yesterday with the arrival on the Brookland campus of Chick Gagnon, former Holy Cross star, who will act as the Cardinals' diamond coach.

Although uniforms were not available, Gagnon ordered an informal practice immediately and more than twenty candidates responded. He announced that the first regular drill will be held today.

Gagnon, who is under a two-year contract to coach baseball and football at Catholic, spent the winter coaching St. John's High School Basket Ball Team in Worcester, Mass. This is his first season as a diamond mentor at the Brookland institution.

With continued favorable weather, Gagnon said, the Cardinals should be able to stage a practice game by the middle of next week. Dartmouth will be met in the opening regular game on March 31.

"If I can uncover a couple of good pitchers, I am sure we will have a satisfactory season," declared the new coach. "The caliber of pitching determines the strength of a college baseball team."

Ringle to Be Track Iron-Man.

Johnny Ringle, football and basket ball star, is being groomed to fill the iron-man role in Gallaudet College track activities formerly occupied by Louis Byouk, who graduated last June. Coach Teddy Hughes is drilling Ringle in the 100-yard dash, quarter-mile run, discus, shot put and high jump.

A squad of 18 candidates is now holding daily workouts under Hughes' supervision on Hotchkiss Field. About half of them will compete tomorrow night in the Catholic University indoor meet at Brookland. Hughes yesterday nominated a two-mile relay team as a late entry.

Hughes has tentatively arranged the following competitive schedule for the Blue trackmen: April 12, interclass meet; May 3, Catholic U., dual meet at Brookland; May 10, American U. dual meet at Kendall Green (pending); May 17, Maryland U. Freshmen, dual meet at College Park; May 24, George Washington U., dual meet at Kendall Green (pending).

Ricca Is Lost to G. U. Relay Team.

Georgetown's track team lost its fourth regular member yesterday when Louis Ricca, No. 2 man of the one-mile relay quartet, sprained his ankle while practicing for a race tomorrow night in the Knights of Columbus games in New York City.

As a result, it is probable that Jim Kelly, versatile anchor man of the two-mile four, will take Ricca's place and compete in two events. The two-mile team is entered in the meet along with Leo Sexton, high jumper and shot putter, and Erik Kjellstrom, hurdler.

Previously, the Hilltop track team had suffered the loss of Karl Wildermuth, intercollegiate 100-yard outdoor champion; Capt. Larry Milstedt, half-miler, and John Cranley, quarter-miler.

MARINES MEET RIVALS.

The Marine Barracks Five, defeated but once this season, will engage the Rolling Field Tossers tonight at Marine Barracks at 8 o'clock.

WOLTZ FIVE WINS, 36-23, AS POST'S TOURNEY OPENS

Heavy Hitting Tigers Ask Pitching

Harris Is Surrounded by Slugging Crew for 1930 Campaign.

Rogell Wins Shortstop Post; Battery Is Problem.

Note—This is the eighth of a series of first-hand Associated Press stories on major league baseball prospects.

By BRIAN BELL.

TAMPA, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Soft-voiced Stanley Harris, manager of Detroit, is surrounded by a mob of he-man hitters, and if his pitchers do not cause him to lose his pleasant smile, his Tigers should have some part, perhaps a large one, in the final American League reckoning.

Detroit had the hitters last year, the club leading the league at bat, but the defense left much to be desired. Since the close of the last campaign much speed has been added and the minors have been combed for pitchers who can protect a five or six run lead.

Three-fourths of the infield will be returned with Dale Alexander, a mighty slugger, at first; Charlie Gehringer, one of the game's great, at second, and the dependable Marty McManus at third.

Bill Rogell, former Red Sox infielder, who had a brilliant year with St. Paul in 1929, practically has won the shortstop position. Last year an "X" between second and third bases marked the spot where many Detroit ball games were buried.

Bill Akers, George Wuestling and Manager Harris—no mean infielder himself—will provide the infield substitutes.

Outfield Offers Big Problem.

Henry Greenberg, a 19-year-old New York boy, very big for his years, probably will have to go away to the minors to get experience at first base play, but he has had his hour of glory no matter what happens in the baseball future. He has stood at the plate and slugged toe to toe with the Alexanders, Fothergills, Gehringers and other Detroit destructionists.

Not even the keen-eyed Bucky Harris knows who will play the outfield when the opening bell starts the ball rolling with the Browns. Roy Johnson, with a brilliant first year behind him, will have a place, and Elias Funk, who was briefly a Yankee, has so much speed it seems impossible to keep him out. Johnny Stone can hit, but his fielding remains on trial. Harry Rice, a star performer at times, has been playing on the second team, but may be promoted. Bob Roy Fothergill, the huge pinch hitter, will continue to practice his speciality.

The battery assignments are in a state of chaos and may remain so for sometime. From the more or less ill-fated 1929 team, torn by stress and strife, have merged four starting pitchers. Earl Whitehill, the brilliant southpaw; Owen Carroll, inclined to wildness, but with a world of stuff; George Uhle, the former Cleveland Indian, who started much better than he was able to finish, and Vic Sorrell, former Wake Forest College star, who may be just outside the pitching hall of fame, will be regulars beyond question.

Much Depends Upon Young Pitchers.

Elon Hogsett, Cherokee Indian by birth and Iroquois by adoption, a big left-hander with an underslung delivery, will take his turn when the time comes, and Whitlow Wyatt, a right-hander up from Evansville, has had the camp in something of a furore with his early season "stuff."

Four other recruit pitchers who have made fine early impressions are Arthur Herring, from Oklahoma City; Morton Nelson, from the Mission Club; Joe Samuels, from Toronto, and Charlie Sullivan, from Fort Worth. All are right-handers.

Three catchers have been brought over from last season—Mervyn Shea, Pinky Hargrave and Ray Hayworth. They may not be able to beat back the determined drive for places on the staff now being made by George Rensa, from Toronto, and Bill Steinecke, from Seattle. Rensa and Steinecke are very fast and have shotgun rams. No one would be surprised to see at least one of them make the grade.

Harris has been delighted with the spirit shown by the players in the spring training and while he is making no predictions it is easy to see that he will be bitterly disappointed if the Tigers could not do much better for themselves in 1930 than they did in 1929. If three of his young pitchers make good, and such a development does not seem to be an unreasonable hope, he believes he will see his band of clouters winning enough ball games to make them very unpopular with the other clubs.

Public Indebted to Miami Fight Fiasco As Deliverance From More of Phil Scott

Even Referee's Error in Not Calling Foul Is Approved.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

FOULED though he certainly was, by the admission of the referee, Fainting Philip Scott has been such a lugubrious bore in his few perpendicular moments in the ring in the United States that the Miami outrage is likely to be condoned and the official verdict accepted as a writ of deliverance from further impositions on press and public.

Judged by sporting standards, the decision that the blow which felled Philip was low but not foul was quite unfair to the visiting fireman, but I doubt that there will be much indignation on that point outside Philip's own circle of imported and domestic managers because Americans have caught the idea of prize fighting, particularly in the heavyweight class, is show business and not sport.

It is true that instances of the most chivalrous conduct occur unexpectedly from time to time, as in the demeanor of Jimmy Maloney of Boston in the ninth and tenth rounds of his fight with Moise Bouquillon, of France, one of the preliminaries to the Battle of the Itching Palms. In this case, Maloney, whose future is some distance behind him, could have knocked Bouquillon unconscious but deliberately boxed away from him and while it may be that he merely wished to save him for a return bout in Boston, I am romantic enough to believe that Maloney was playing the sportsman and the gentleman.

Finance and Law Are Excepted.

But one may discover sporting conduct now and again in all professions with the exceptions of finance and the law, two lines which, quite strangely, are contributing many wealthy dilettantes to the prize fighting industry nowadays, all of them zealous to uplift a racket which seems to stand in no worse need of uplift than their own. The mere fact that boxing, under amateur or mildly commercial conditions, can be conducted as a sport does not argue that prize fighting, especially heavyweight prize fighting, with its dignified financial and somewhat less dignified, but nevertheless persistent, political influences, partakes of the nature of sport at all.

The English press will be a long time forgetting the outrage of Miami, but then Englishmen have not footed the bills for Philip's American swoons, and therefore are entitled only to a nonvoting interest in the controversy. In England, prize fighting, even among the heavyweights, still observes some of the outward forms of sport, due to the fact that most Englishmen are Scotsmen under the skin and will not pay enough money for any prize fight to eradicate the sporting element entirely.

If it is be argued that this bespeaks a discriminating intelligence on the part of the English customer, I will not undertake to defend the negative side of the proposition, for of all the prize fights I have seen, the ringside tickets for which sold for $27.50 or $55 each, only one, the Dempsey-Firpo upheaval at the Polo Grounds was worth more than $5, including the tax.

Rickard Responsible For Large Sums.

It was the late Mr. Rickard who developed the idea of enticing people to pay large sums of money, not so much to witness his prize fights, as to enjoy momentary proximity to those wealthy or more genuinely distinguished persons whom he arbitrarily classed as the very best people. They, on their part, were beguiled by this flattery and paid large amounts for tickets, confident that his press agents would mention them in the mimeographed handouts as having been among those present. Mr. Rickard's mimeographed dodgers, which were handed out to the boys of the working press row thus came to be a sort of supplement to the social register, and, of course, the satisfaction was general.

Such vanity is not foreign to the English character if one may judge from the editorials in which the press looks very askance indeed at some of the green-grocers and pill magnates in the annual honors list, but England has never had a Tex Rickard to flatter and exploit it at $27.50 or $55 per head. This seems regrettable, as there are undoubedly a great many wealthy citizens of London who would consider this no more than a fair price to pay for mention as among the distinguished persons present, even at a prize fight.

Calls Scott Greatest Defensive Fighter.

But, to return to Fainting Philip Scott, I suspect that the cynical attitude of the American customer in approving the injustice to him is no more harsh than his attitude toward the customer would have been if he had won the Battle of the Itching Palms on points after fifteen tedious rounds, as he certainly would have done, barring fouls. Philip then would have gone on to meet Max Schmeling, and probably beat him, too, for he is the finest defensive heavyweight boxer in practice at this time, and that would have been a very terrible thing indeed.

Heavyweight champions are nuisances at best, fighting once a year, if that, and with the least formidable challengers for choice. But a defensive boxer as champion is a cruel and unusual affliction which Mr. Lou Magnolia, by his happy error of judgment, spared the devotees of the prize fight racket.

I hope I am not being broad-minded about Philip's boxing ability, for broad-mindedness bespeaks a lack of opinion, and I have very definite, unpleasant opinions of Fainting Phil Scott. But this big, lack-luster athlete with the negative style of operation was beating Sharkey up to the time of the fouls in round three, and it is fortunate that prize fighting is not a sport, because in that case he must, necessarily, have been declared the winner.

Philip has no grounds for complaint. If he wished to work under a nice administration of the rules of sportsmanship he should have remained in London, where $5,000 is the popular conception of a lot of money to pay a pugilist. He received $30,000 for the Battle of the Itching Palms, and a two-line ad in the papers under the heading of "Help Wanted, Male," would bring an astonishing stampede of unemployed heavyweights, willing to fight any man living, no holds barred, for somewhat less than half of that.

Rosenbloom Is Fouled By Johnson in Sixth

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Maxey Rosenbloom, play boy of Harlem, won from Larry Johnson, stiff punching Chicago Negro, on a foul tonight in the sixth round of their ten-round feature match in Madison Square Garden. A swinging left deep in the groin, stretched Rosenbloom writhing on the canvas after 29 seconds of the sixth. Rosenbloom weighed 173½, Johnson 174½.

It was an unsatisfactory ending to a vicious battle that was fought on fairly even terms through the first five rounds. The thumping Negro, swinging into action with solid left hooks to the body an occasional right to the head, annoyed Rosenbloom considerably but could not spike the Harlem harlequin's whirlwind attack.

There seemed no question that the low blow, entirely accidental, was palpably foul. Rosenbloom was badly hurt and was unable to leave the ring for several minutes.

Fans Spared Possibility of Purely Defensive Champion.

Braves Beat Yanks; Ruth Gets Home Run

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees found their war clubs silenced by two experienced pitchers, Bruce Cunningham and Ed Brandt, with the result that Boston Braves won their first exhibition game of the season, 7 to 5, today. Manager Bob Shawkey chose to experiment with youngsters on the mound.

Babe Ruth, playing his first game of the 1930 season as a bonafide member of the Yankees, hit his first home run of the season over the rightfield wall in the third inning. The hit scored Combs and gave the Yankees a lead of 4 to 0.

Henry Lamar Loses Bout on Foul To Joe Banovic in Opening Round

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, N. Y., March 10.—Joe Banovic, of Binghamton, N. Y., won on a foul in the first round of his bout with Henry Lamar, of Washington, D. C., in Madison Square Garden tonight. The time of the bout was two minutes and 48 seconds. Banovic weighed 177 pounds, Lamar 184.

Up to the time of the foul the contest appeared to be even. Both struck hard punches to the head and body and, when the round was nearly over, Lamar landed a blow to the body as they mixed in the center of the ring. Banovic went down and laid out on his back, but Referee Jack Denning, who saw the blow land, made no attempt to count. Instead he called Banovic's seconds into the ring and motioned Lamar to his own corner. The referee then gave his decision, awarding the fight to Banovic on a foul.

BiloxiDazzled By Fielding Of McLeod

19-Year-Old Shortstop From Little Rock Promising.

Judge and Rice Are Showing Early Pep at Nats' Camp.

By FRANK H. YOUNG (Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 10.—Jimmy McLeod, rookie shortstop, purchased from the Little Rock Southern Association Club, furnished the feature of this morning's workout of the Nationals, putting up a dazzling fielding game both at third base and shortstop in the infield drill, and he was getting the ball away as fast and as accurately as one could ask in midseason.

The secret is that the youngster, who graduated from the Little Rock High School only last month and who was but 19 years of age last September, has been working out in a gymnasium and doing some outdoor running and throwing. He handled himself like a veteran afield and if he can hit, is likely to give Joe Cronin a good fight for the regular short field berth.

"Mac," as his mates call him, is the ideal type of player, being an even 6 feet in height and weighing 176 pounds, having worked off a 20-pound surplus before reporting here. He appears to have plenty of power in his shoulders, but did not impress as much at bat as did some of the other first-time outers.

Purchased by Nats Last June.

McLeod has done all of his playing in Little Rock, his home town and welcomes the opportunity of playing somewhere else for a while, claiming that there is something in the saying that a prophet is without honor in his own country. He has been playing professionally but part of one season, graduating to the Little Rock team from the sandlots last spring.

He was purchased by the Nationals last June, being the first player in the circuit grabbed by the big leaguers. Almost as soon as he was sold, however, the Little Rock Team benched him in the hope of being able to develop another bit of salable shortstop talent. A little later, the regular third baseman was injured and McLeod got back in action at the hot corner. Previously he had never played anywhere but shortstop.

He has a throwing motion like that of Ossie Bluege and his work afield today was of such high order that even other ball players noticed it. Bluege put his knee through another test and passed with a 100 per cent mark. After taking his regular infield drill, he went to the outfield and chased flies for half an hour, covering plenty of ground and snaring everything which came his way.

Powell and Bradley Make Debuts.

Alvin Powell and Bill Bradley were the other youngsters showing their stuff here today for the first time. Despite a lay-off since last fall, Powell cracked out several hard hits, while Bradley, relieving Judge at first base showed himself to be a rangy fellow and a sure catch. He throws left-handed and bats in the orthodox manner.

Pitcher Garland Braxton was out in uniform, but, as he is suffering from the effects of some infected teeth he was allowed to take things easily. He will simply absorb as much fresh air and sunshine as he can until the Nats leave for Chattanooga then will return of his home at Burlington, N. C., to have his dental work completed and later will report at Chattanooga and get down to the serious business of preparation for the coming season.

The slim southpaw accepted a small salary cut for 1930, signing for $10,000 and a promise by President Griffith that he would be given a bonus after the season ends if his work justifies it.

One of the busiest men in camp these days is Assistant Trainer F. Reilly (Bo-bo) Baxter. In addition

Howley Drives Reds With Owner on Scene

Orlando, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Three outstanding reasons today caused the Cincinnati Reds to dash through their spring training work with unusual vigor and zest. One was the arrival of Sidney Weil, their president; another was the presence of a microphone and movie camera which recorded their deeds for posterity, and the other was Dan Howley, fiery manager, who drove the squad at top speed for four hours.

Howley today sent the veteran pitchers to the mound for the first time. Last week Howley confined pitching activities to covering first base on infield drives in order to strengthen their legs. Today he told them to start conditioning their arms.

Joe Stripp, a leading third base candidate, suffered an eye injury when struck by a bounding ball.

BILL TILDEN SCORES.

Nice, France, March 10 (A.P.).—Bill Tilden began play today in the Nice tennis championship tournament, defeating Chiesa, a local player, by scores of 6—2, 6—0, in the first round.

Catholic Meets G. W. In Swim Meet Tonight

The Catholic University-George Washington rivalry extends into another branch of sport tonight when the Cardinals and Colonials clash at Brookland in a swimming meet, starting at 8 o'clock. It is the first of two meets scheduled this season, the second being listed for March 19 at the Ambassador Hotel pool.

Catholic's swimmers, in spite of having failed to win in four previous meets this winter, are favored to capture the decision, as they have had much more experience than the Colonials.

Cards Pound Walberg To Defeat Macks, 16-9

Fort Myers, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—For the second straight day, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 16 to 9. The Cards thus took the lead in the four-game series, two to one, and the final will be played at Bradenton tomorrow.

A fairly close game at the start was changed when Rube Walberg faced the National Leaguers in the fourth. Before he had finished his three innings' workout the Cardinals had knocked out ten hits for eleven runs, sewing up the game. Homer Peel, formerly of the Phillies, swatted two doubles, a triple and a single, driving in half of the Cards' runs.

Title Holders Draw Away Near End

St. Martin's Team Is Elmiinated; Flashes Beat Arcadians.

Calvary Drakes Beat Wallace Memorial in 2 Extra Periods.

THE Woltz Photographer, Montrose A. C., Calvary Drake and Jewish Community Center Flash Fives weather the first storms in the stormy paths pointing toward District A. A. U. basket ball supremacy as the annual tournament sponsored by The Washington Post, got under way in the Tech High gym last night.

The defending city champions, the Photographers, had to charge in the second half to turn back a determined St. Martin's Catholic Club, 36 to 23, while the Calvary Drakes emerged from the most spirited duel of the night, after two extra periods, defeating the Wallace Memorial Five, 35 to 32.

Montrose A. C. offered a steam roller offensive that swept the Remsens of Takoma Park, before it in easy fashion, 44 to 18. The Jewish Community Center Flashes stayed off a determined attack from the Arcadians and eked out a 24 to 20 decision in a 130-pound class contest.

Woltz Team Grows Strong Toward End.

The Woltz machine gained momentum as the game progressed and the great work of Buscher, Forney and MacCartee in the final period carried the palm of victory to the camp of the defending champions, as the Saints battled point for point through the first three quarters of the gruelling struggle. Both teams lost the services of valuable men. Wanley was retired on personal fouls for the Saints. Buscher made his exit by the same route.

The Saints made such a stanch stand early in the fray the end of the first 15 minutes of play found them leading the way, 17 to 16. The Woltz defense tightened and the half ended with the city champions in the van, 24 to 17. The victors pulled away from their rivals in the second half and held a comfortable margin the closing minutes of play.

Montrose Shows Big Offensive.

Montrose A. C. outclassed the Remsens of Takoma Park, in the first unlimited contest of the tournament, running up a commanding lead at the start to gain a 44-to-18 final decision. The Montrosemen, with several former and present Western High court stars in the line-up, displayed an offensive that may be heard from frequently throughout the tournament.

The Remsens were held scoreless in the first ten minutes of play, while the Montrosemen registered 11 points. The victors had a 23-to-6 lead at half time and continued their whirlwind passing and counting through the second half. Andy Scheele and Bob Freeman shared scoring honors for the victors. Williams performed well for the Remsens.

Flashes Gain Edge In Third Period.

A big third period rally carried the Jewish Community Center Flashes to victory over the plucky Arcadians in a spirited 24 to 20 battle of 130-pounders that opened the tournament. Tied at 9-all at intermission, the Flashes, victors in their last 22 games, came back strong and counted 12 points to 2 for their victims in the third period. The Arcadians battled gamely against elimination in the last period, but in vain, for the big third period scoring placed the Flashes far enough in front to stave off the big splurge of the losers in the closing minutes.

Pollinger's all-around play and Jake Understein's accurate shooting featured for the victors. Holland was the bright star for the Arcadians.

Mayor Watches Phils; First Base Berth Topic

Winter Haven, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia, visited the Phillies' training camp today and watched as the players worked.

In the field drills, the National leaguers worked with both Hurst and Jack Sherlock at first base, Hurst taking charge at the start and later retiring to the outfield. Although the placing of Sherlock at first base inspired considerable gossip, Hurst is said to be a good bet to be the regular first baseman.

George Susce, strong boy of the catching staff, who suffered a fractured left clavicle yesterday when hit on the shoulder by a foul tip, put on a uniform today and did several laps around the park. George's one aim in life is to become the first-string catcher of the Phillies, and he feels fate had dealt with him severely with his present injury.

SPRING GRID SQUAD OUT AT NAVY

50 Candidates Hear Initial Lecture in Gymnasium.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 10.—A squad of 50 midshipmen reported this afternon to Lieut. Comdr. Frederick G. Reinicke, graduate manager, ready to begin spring football drills. William A. (Navy Bill) Ingram, head coach, arrived in town from his home in Jeffersonville, and took charge of the gridders.

Practice sessions, which will be launched tomorrow, will continue six weks, Ingram said. This afternoon Ingram gathered the squad about him in the gymnasium and discussed plans for the spring workouts.

Ingram will be assisted in the program by Johnny Wilson, his chief assistant.

Navy would like to have the services of E. J. (Rip) Miller, former Notre Dame star, as line coach, but no contract with him has been closed. Miller served in that capacity in 1927 and 1928, but business affairs prevented him from returning last fall.

Veterans, Former Plebes Comprise Squad.

In the squad of players on hand today were many veterans of the late campaign besides the outstanding players of the plebe group. A number of others who have been engaged in winter aports will join the squad later, but those making ready for spring activities, such as baseball, lacrosse, rowing and track, will not reap the benefits of the spring training period.

Blustery weather set back plans for bringing the baseball squad out of doors this afternon. Six crews of oarsmen were on the river, but the roughness of the river forced them to confine their practice to short spurts in the lee of College Creek. Lacross players have been working in the open for some time. Tennis and track candidates were working outdoors today, so that wherever one turned there was much athletic activity on the naval reservation.

Polish Runner Barred From American Meets

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Stanislaw Petkiewicz, Polish runner, was barred from further competition in this country by the Amateur Athletic Union today upon receipt of information from Europe that he is not in the good graces of the International Athletic Federation.

Petkiewicz was scheduled to compete in a meet in Hartford, Conn., tonight; the New York Chapter Knights of Columbus event at Madison Square Garden Wednesday and the National A. A. U. indoor championships at the same arena March 18.

In the K. of C. games the hard-running Pole had been a featured entrant in the Columbian mile, an international event in which he was pitted against Ray Conger and Dr. Paul Martin, of Switzerland.

A statement from the A. A. U. explained that Petkiewicz, who competed for Latvia in the last Olmypics but has since transferred his allegiance to Poland, had been denied permission ever to compete in Latvia again and that that country has asked the international federation to make the disqualification universal.

The A. A. U., seeking to determine whether Petkiewicz is eligible while this matter is pending before the federation, asked J. S. Edstrom, president of the international body, for a ruling. It was received today and was in the negative.

East Eclipses West, College Meets Reveal

Track athletes of Eastern colleges, members of the I. C. 4-A, have much the better of a comparison with Western trackmen, of the Big Ten Conference, as regards their performances in recent championship meets.

In five of the seven events which were run off in both meets, the work of the Eastern men excelled. The I. C. 4-A championships were held in New York on March 1 and the Western games in Minneapolis last Saturday.

The 2-mile run afforded the most favorable comparison to the East. Paul Rekers, of Penn State, turned in a record-breaking time of 9:22.8 in the I. C. 4-A meet, while the time of Orval Martin, Purdue, Big Ten winner, was 9:35.4—slower by 12.6 seconds.

Western representatives produced the better marks in the 70-yard high hurdles and the pole vault, a new world's record of 0:08.5 being hung up in the former by Lee Seritman, Illinois.

Following is a table of comparative performances in the events held at both meets:

East.	Event.	West.
4:21 (flat)	1 mile	4:24.6
9:22.8	2 miles	9:35.4
0:08.8	70-yd. hurdles	†0:08.5
†3:20.8	Mile relay	3:27 (flat)
13 ft.	Pole vault	13 ft. 3½ in.
48 ft. 6½ in.	Shot put	48 ft. 1¾ in.
6 ft. 3½ in.	High jump	6 ft. 1 in.

*Meet record (old record, 9:30.8).
†World record (old record, 70-yard hurdles, 0:08.6; mile relay, 3:21).

VALLEY FANS NOW AWAIT BASEBALL

Three Leagues Start Preparations for Season.

Special to The Washington Post.

HARRISONBURG, Va., March 10. With last week ringing down the curtain on a highly interesting basket ball season, Shenandoah Valley fans and athletes alike are turning to thoughts of baseball—and in many cases, outdoor work on the diamond already is under way.

Track, growing in popularity in the valley, will fight harder than ever this spring to share the sporting spotlight with baseball. The valley prep schools are paying more attention each year to track, with, perhaps, a slight letting down on baseball emphasis. For the fans, however, baseball still occupies the spring stage.

The valley's two semipro baseball leagues already are busy with plans for their season, which starts early in June with the close of the scholastic play. Directors of both the Augusta and Rockingham circuits have met to organize for the season, and the Shen-Ham circuit soon will follow. Those towns sponsoring independent clubs also are beginning to talk over plans.

Augusta League Has Troubles.

The Augusta League, which last season developed into a fast circuit, is having trouble in the make-up of its circuit. Only Staunton, Waynesboro and Fordwick have shown a willingness to enter the fold. Bridgewater and Shenandoah have refused franchises. Weyers Cave, a pioneer in the circuit, has given up because it can not compete financially with the larger towns.

Rockingham is planning a six-club circuit, composed of Dayton, Elkton, Mount Crawford, Spring Creek, Bridgewater and Broadway. The last two clubs have not been represented in the circuit for several years, but have reentered the fold this season.

The Shen-Ham League expects to reorganize with Forestville, New Market, Timberville, and Possibly Tenth Legion.

ALEXANDRIA HIGH FIVE DEFEATED

Loses to Buchanan in Virginia Court Tourney Final.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 10.—Defeating Alexandria High School in the final game of today's tournament, 21 to 12, the Buchanan Quint was tonight crowned 1930 class B champions of Virginia in basket ball.

The victors entered the tournament here with a record of 22 victories. In the semifinals this afternoon they registered their twenty-third victory over the Vinton Quint, 32 to 19.

To determine the State champion for all classes, Buchanan will meet Roanoke, winner of the class A tournament in Buchanan on Saturday night, March 15.

Alexandria Five Rallied in Vain.

Buchanan took the lead at the start of tonight's game and was never headed, although the Alexandria players staged a rally in the third quarter which brought them within two points of knotting the count.

Last season Buchanan girls team won the class B championship.

In the semifinals held this afternoon Alexandria High defeated Waynesboro, champions of District 4, 17 to 10, and Buchanan won from Vinton, 32 to 19.

Alexandria took the lead in the final minute of the first quarter and was never headed, leading at half time, 11 to 5. Capt. Sinclair was high-point man, with three field goals and as many shots from the foul line.

Wisconsin's Track Win Is Threatened by Foul

Minneapolis, March 10 (A.P.).—A note of discord appeared today to cast a shadow on the indoor track meet championship of the Western Conference, awarded Saturday night to Wisconsin.

The Badgers scored 21 points to annex the title, while Illinois was second with 18. Reports from Chicago yesterday, however, were to the effect that a statement concerning an alleged foul committed by a Wisconsin runner in a relay race had been sent to Referee Rawson.

Should that official uphold any protest made, Wisconsin may lose two points as the result of disqualification on the relay race and Illinois gain two points and the meet.

After the race an infraction of the rules was reported by the course inspector to the referee, who was said at that time to have found no cause for disqualifying the Badger runner.

Group to Honor Little At Dinner Saturday

Friends of Lou Little will rally around the former Georgetown football coach and athletic director at a testimonial dinner Saturday night at the Columbia Country Club. About 40 persons are expected to attend and one of them will be Tommy Mills, Little's successor at the Hilltop.

Little at present is engaged in spring practice at Columbia University in New York, where he signed as head football coach last December at a reported annual salary of $18,000. Among his assistants are Herb Kopf, George McCabe, Sam Cordovano and Paul Liston, who either coached or played under him at Georgetown.

In order that those attending may have time enough to view the Georgetown-Bucknell boxing match, the dinner will start at 6:30 o'clock. Justin V. O'Connor, Jarrett C. White, Angus MacDonald and Dr. George T. Sharp form the committee in charge.

SPECIALTY STOCKS GAIN AS SALES RISE

Many 1930 Records Made as Trading Expands Considerably.

AMUSEMENT LIST RISES

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Encouraged with their success in attracting a public following in the stock market, bull forces continued to bid up a wide assortment of amusement, manufacturing and specialty stock to new high levels for the year today. Trading expanded considerably, the day's turnover falling just short of 4,000,000 shares, the largest since early February.

The upturn was hampered by rather heavy liquidation for a time during the morning, and by realizing just before the close. The advance was not uniform, a sprinkling of shares, in which the utilities were prominent, closing a little lower. In more bullish circles, the opinion prevailed that the lull in the business recovery is but momentary, and that by the end of the month a spring acceleration of industry would be in full swing. A sizable element of the speculative community remained cautious, however, pointing to the rather cheerless trade reviews appearing over the week-end, and the approach of the mid-month income tax settlement date, which may cause considerable liquidation.

The item of the day's news received with greatest interest was the United States Steel report of unfilled tonnage as of the end of February, which showed a gain of only 11,088 tons for the month. While this was almost a negligible change, Wall street would not have been surprised at a substantial decrease in view of the high rate of operations maintained by the steel corporation's plants during February. Reports of current operations of steel mills generally show moderate declines from last week's rate of operations at both Pittsburgh and Youngstown.

Youngstown Tube Rises.

Reports that a plan of merger for Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube had been virtually completed and would be formally announced on Wednesday caused a run-up of 8 points in Youngstown stock, which touched 150. Profit-taking quickly appeared, however, and the shares closed at 144⅞. Bethlehem was rather heavily sold through much of the day, evidently in realizing on its upturn late last week. It closed more than 2 points lower. The banking syndicate which underwrote the additional issue of 800,000 shares of stock just before the market broke last fall are understood still to be holding much of it.

Radio-Keith was a strong and active feature of the amusement shares, rising 3 points to new peak levels for the year. Loew's advanced about 2 points more, and some of the less conspicuous members of the group, such as Consolidated Film Industries, Pathe Exchange A, and Shubert Theaters also reached new top levels.

Several of the tobacco shares also reached new peak levels, including Liggett & Myers, Reynolds, and Porto Rican-American. The American tobacco issues, however, eased. Some of the oils were in continued demand, Barnsdall and Mexican Petroleum reaching new 1930 tops. The food group was again prominent on the upside, Coca-Cola and Hershey Chocolate rising about 5 points.

Aubnrn Auto Advances.

Vanadium was a buoyant feature, rising about 11 points. Auburn sold up to 10 and Eastman Kodak made an extreme gain of 7, then slipped back 4 from the top. Allis Chalmers reached a new high on announcement of unfilled orders in excess of $13,000,000, and Celotex rose to 60, on election of a General Motors representative to the board. Underwood, Elliott, Remington Rand, Goodyear, Sharp & Dohme, Pacific Gas, Peoples Gas, and aPckard were among other issues selling at the best levels of the year. The Federal Reserve Board's report that department store sales for February showed a reduction of 2 per cent from the previous February, was without visible influence on department store stocks, Gimbels was sent up over 2 points to a new top.

Credit conditions remained easy. Call money renewed at 4 per cent, but was quoted at 3½ later. No further reductions were reported in the outside market, however. Foreign exchanges were firm. Sterling cables ruled at 4:86 5-16, up ⅛.

The commodity markets were again reactionary. Cotton futures dropped to further new low levels for the season, and rallied but slightly from the day's lowest levels, closing 45 to 85 cents a bale lower. Wheat futures broke 2 cents and more, but the March and May positions rallied to close only fractionally lower. July, however, lost 2¾ cents net. The decline was promoted by a further increase in the United States visible supply, and weakness at Liverpool. Corn futures lost more than a cent.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Rallies from an early decline on trade buying and covering were followed by renewed weakness in the cotton market today, with prices on some positions making new low records for the season late in the afternoon under reselling by early buyers and liquidation promoted by the decline in which May contracts, after advancing from 14.11 to 14.42, broke to 14.03 in the late trading, or 17 points below Saturday's closing quotation. They closed at 14.10, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 9 to 17 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 6 points. There may have been some buying on relatively steady Liverpool cables, but reports of increased fertilizer sales for February, as compared with last year, brought in some selling which sent prices off to 14.32 for July and 14.44 for the old October contracts. This decline seemed to attract some trade buying and the market stiffened up on covering, which was probably coupled with local buying on a belief that the market was entitled to the actions after its recent severe losses.

March sold up to 14.13, or about 15 points net higher, while July advanced to 14.62 and the old October contract to 14.72, making net gains of about 12 to 22 points on the more active positions. The demand then tapered off, however, and after some hesitation the market weakened again under selling which seemed to be coming partly from New Orleans and Liverpool.

Early buyers were credited with reselling in the last hour, when March declined to 13.89, July to 14.25 and October to 14.36, or 16 to 17 points net lower. Of the old contracts March, May and January made net lows for the season, while all the new contracts reached new low records in the late trading, with the new October selling at 14.20. Trading in the new contracts was relatively more active than recently, with some of the selling attributed to reports that new crop preparations were well up to or ahead of this time last year.

Sales of fertilizer tags for the months of February in the Southern States were reported 21.3 per cent larger than for February last year, but 3.7 per cent smaller than for February, 1928.

Liverpool cables reported continental and Bombay buying, but said that buyers of cotton cloths and yarns were cautious.

Exports today, 3,500, making 5,576,720 so far this season. Port receipts, 6,899. United States port stocks, 2,047,162.

FOREIGN BONDS RISE AS TRADING SLUMPS

Latin-American Group and Amusement List Gain During Day.

INDUSTRIALS ARE FIRM

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Improvement in bond prices extended today to the foreign list which made a broad upward swing. Latin-American issues displayed pronounced strength and gains of 1 and 2 points were numerous in this subdivision.

Although the day's total business was considerably below last Friday's, the market had sufficient depth to keep domestic corporation bonds at the levels attained in last week's advance. Inquiry for the prime rails was only moderate in comparison with the spirited turnovers of recent sessions, but a number of bonds touched new highs for the year. Utilities and industrials were quiet and firm. The reported Bethlehem-Youngstown merger directed some attention to steel company obligations. Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s sold off ¼ and Bethlehem purchase money 5s rose ½.

Amusement company bonds were strong with the stocks. Loew's 6s touched a new high at 122, showing a net gain of 1⅜. Pathe 7s with warrants moved up more than 3 points, Shubert Theater 7s more than 4 and Paramount Broadway 5½s 1 point. Most of the advances were retained through the close.

Brazilian List Touches Peak.

Brazilian bonds were very active, and all the listings made new 1930 highs. Rio Grande do Sul and Sao Paulo State issues, as well as the Columbia 6s, Peru first 6s, Buenos Aires 6s, Fernambuco 7s and Chile 6s, participated in the demonstration. Argentines were quiet. In the European section there was buying of Belgium 7½s and 7s, German Agricultural Bank 6s, Rome City 6½s and Berlin City Electric 6½s.

The syndicate floating the $25,000,000 issue of Alleghany Corporation convertible collateral trust 20-year 5s reported a substantial oversubscription, and the bonds, traded when issued, went to 97¾ against the offering price of 97. The listed 5s of 1944 and 1949 rose a point.

Other convertibles also improved, although not extensively. American Telephone 4½s moved narrowly. American International 5½s gained 2 points.

Investment Rails Firmer.

The firmer investment rails included Canadian Pacific debenture 4s, Kansas City Terminal 4s, New York Central 4s and 3½s, Northern Pacific general 3s, Southern Railway general 4s and St. Louis-San Francisco prior lien 4s.

Easy credit conditions found reflection in a small upturn in the Liberty and Treasury issues. Activity was limited, but all of the listings either equaled or edged across the previous 1930 highs. Net gains ran from 1-32 to ¼.

Time money proved to be a little firmer in the short maturity, but call loans again dropped to 3½ per cent after renewing at 4.

ADVISOR TO RIGGS BRANCHES NAMED

LeRoy King, Coal Merchant, Succeeds Father to Bank Position.

DIVIDEND IS DECLARED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Following the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of Riggs National Bank yesterday, President Robert V. Fleming announced the appointment of LeRoy O. King as a member of the advisory board of the branches of that institution. He will fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of his father, William King, formerly president of the Farmers & Mechanics National Bank of Georgetown, and whose father preceded him as a director of that bank.

Mr. King, the new appointee to the advisory board, is the surviving member of the firm of William King & Son, coal merchants, and one of Washington's oldest business concerns. He will be the third generation of the family to serve in a directorial capacity at the Farmers & Mechanics Bank, now a branch of Riggs National Bank.

President Fleming also announced declaration of the regular semiannual dividend of $7.50 per share on the capital stock, payable April 15, 1930, to shareholders of record March 31, 1930.

Emerson Drug Earnings.

Emerson's Drug Co. of Baltimore City, Citro Chemical Co. of America and Maryland Glass Corporation have released their earning statements for the year 1929, the combined figures showing the following:

Operating profits and other income	$2,849,682.59
Charges to income, including depreciation and Federal taxes	611,533.50
Net income	$2,238,129.09

After deducting preferred dividends there is an amount applicable to class A and B common stocks of $2.96 per share. The company is now paying an annual dividend of $2 a share on class A and B common stock.

The class A common stock of Emerson's Bromo Seltzer, Inc., the holding company, was brought out by Century Trust Co. of Baltimore, and Waggaman, Brawner & Co., Inc., of Washington, and is listed on the Washington and Baltimore Stock Exchanges and traded in on the New York Curb. Maj. Ennalls Waggaman, president of Waggaman, Brawner & Co., Inc., is a director of Emerson's Bromo Seltzer, Inc.

The current number of Trust Companies Magazine contains a picture and reference to President Edward J. Stellwagen, of the Union Trust Co., of this city, which recently celebrated its thirtieth anniversary.

Mr. Stellwagen has been president of the trust company throughout its entire history and was one of its founders. He was chairman of the Taft inaugural committee in 1909.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

PIERCE TO SUCCEED SMOOT, IS REPORT

Alexandria Banker Seen as Next Occupant of Seat in City Council.

DANIEL STANSBURY DIES

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Carroll Pierce, president of the Citizens National Bank, will be the choice of the city council to succeed Mayor William Albert Smoot as a member of the council, according to current reports in the city yesterday. Mayor Smoot submitted his resignation to the council at last Thursday's meeting, and it is understod a special meeting of the council will be held either today or tomorow, when the reisgnation will be formally accepted and Mr. Pierce appointed. This appointment will be as a member of the council only, it being regaded as practically certain that Councilman Jones, who is vice mayor, will be elected mayor, to serve as such until the expiration of his term, September 1. The term of the new appointee will expire September 1, 1932.

Mr. Pierce has long been active in civic affairs, having been president of the local Chamber of Commerce, and serving on the board of directors of that body. He was also active in the building of the George Mason Hotel, and was the first president of the hotel company. For many years he was vice president and cashier of the Citizens National Bank, and succeeded to the presidency upon the death of Edward L. Daingerfield.

Complete reorganization of the chamber of commerce on modern lines will be recommended by the board of directors at the annual meeting of the chamber Friday night, March 21. The new plan provides for a limited number of activities, with the development of industry and warehousing and civic improvements as the feature.

The report recommends that special emphasis be placed upon building up existing industries and warehouses of the city, attraction of new industries and distributing concerns, engagement of a business manager who would work with the committee on business development, and a drive for members, to be managed by an agency, which is to be put on in May, to finance these activities.

The recommendation provides that every member of the chamber would have a place in the work. Upon election to membership he would be consulted as to his preference, and would be appointed for an indefinite term to a standing committee. These standing committees would cover the whole field, making superfluous the present civic bureau and merchants and manufacturers bureau, which would be discontinued. Each standing committee would include at least one member of the board of directors, and the entire body would meet monthly.

The number of directors would be reduced from 23 to 15, and if the recommendation is adopted the present directors would go out of office immediately after their successors are chosen. The secretary would mail to each member a list of the entire membership, with instructions to strike out all names except 14. The 28 names receiving the highest number of votes would then be mailed out, and again the member would delete all but 14, and the 14 receiving the largest vote would then be declared elected, the first seven to serve two years and the second seven to serve one year.

Where a firm maintains more than one membership, these must each stand in the name of an individual, who must vote personally, with proxies considered illegal.

Mayor William Albert Smoot yesterday indorsed the observance of National Business Women's Week March 10 to 16 by a proclamation complimentary to the Business and Professional Women's Club and the useful work which it is doing for the upbuilding of the community.

The principal feature of the local club's observance will be the dinner at the George Mason Hotel Thursday night, at which heads of civic organizations and city officials will be guests.

Police Capt. W. W. Campbell yesterday received a letter from W. A. Patterson, chief of police of Pontiac, Ill., in response to a description and photograph of the man who was struck and killed by a hit-and-run driver on the road between here and Washington the night of February 28, which he believes establishes the identity of the man as Samuel Fry. A Mrs. Ellen Fry, of Harrisburg, Pa., came to Alexandria several days ago and failed to identify the body as that of her husband, although she said the resemblance was striking.

The letter received yesterday states that the mother of Fry, Mrs. Wallace Elliott, formerly lived in Pontiac, but about nine years ago she removed to Johnson City, Tenn.; that she had four sons by a former marriage,—Floyd, Samuel, William and Roy Fry—and that the photograph and description resemble Samuel, who was said to have a wife named Ellen. Chief Patterson stated he is forwarding the photograph and description to Fry's mother in Johnson City, and Capt. Campbell yesterday also mailed her copies.

Capt. Campbell has been of the opinion for several days that the body is that of Fry, but believes the identity will be established when the mother receives the photograph and description.

The local police are holding a man who gives his name as "Chief Little Wolf," alias Robert Smith, for authorities of Rahway, N. J., who state that the man is wanted in that city on a charge of criminal assault. Capt. W. W. Campbell received a telephone message Sunday from George W. Stewart, acting chief of police of Rahway, asking him to look out for the man, and this was followed yesterday by a letter and photograph, and a warrant for the arrest of Chief Little Wolf, or Smih, who states he is willing to return to Rahway without extradition papers.

The man's head was shaved, or his hair cut very close, and he wears a wig. Capt. Campbell was under the impression that he was a Negro, but with the wig he is said to bear a resemblance to an Indian.

She asserted that refusal of the regular party leaders to name a dry candidate in the last presidential election was responsible for the split, and that the 200,000 women she claimed to represent are "a praying group of women who want no offices and will gladly follow a Jeffersonian leader, but no wet, damp or mildewed candidate need hope for their support."

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA, agog with life, came running out of the garden. She shouted, "Spring is here" and threw a trowel in the lilac bush.

"So 'tis," I sighed, slipping in the mud. "Winter is on the wing!"

"Don't you get a thrill out of it?" she asked. "Don't your fancies lightly turn to thoughts of love?"

"Luella!"

* * * *

SHE ran her fingers through my hair. "I read once," she recalled, "that in the spring a young man's fancy——"

"It must have been some other young man," I told her. "Myself, I don't feel so fancy today——"

"Oh, I didn't mean that," she said, "I mean a young man's fancy—his thoughts, his ambitions——"

"His ambitions? You don't think a young man has to be ambitious to fall in love, do you?"

She leveled that old look at me. "He'd have to be more ambitious than you are," she snapped, and started again for the garden.

I caught her, gave her a hug and a kiss.

"It must be I'm suffering from spring fever," I apologized.

"Oh," she snapped, "to me you don't seem so hot."

Rebuffed, by Jove! Women are hard to please.

"How'd you like to go down and see a show," I asked, by way of making amends.

"I've seen all the shows I want to see," she said. "It's much nicer here in the garden—out in the great open spaces, with the blue sky overhead——"

* * * *

FUNNY, I thought, if some day Luella should find the blue sky underfoot. She might step on it, thinking it was Lon Chaney.

"If you were really in love with nature, with life," she said, "you'd start planting something——"

"What?"

"Anything!"

So I planted a kiss, right smack on her lips. It changed the whole world.

"I told you, didn't I, that in the spring a young man's fancy ——"

"And I told you I'm not fancy—just a plain old-fashioned lover——"

"I hope you always remain so," she said: "What show did you want to take me to?"

Certainly, spring is here.

VIRGINIA IS GAINING IN REFORESTATION

400,000 Seedlings Available for Work in State This Year.

FURTHER GAIN IS SEEN

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 10.—Four hundred thousand small forest tree seedlings are available for the reforestation of idle lands in Virginia this spring, according to an announcement just being issued from the University of Virginia by the Virginia Forest Service.

Chapin Jones, State forester, in discussing reforestation, said that while the number of trees being planted in Virginia is small when compared with plantings in Pennsylvania and New York, where 12,000,000 and 21,000,000 were planted last year, reforestation in Virginia has increased remarkably within the year just past.

"Planting done in 1929 showed an increase of 800 per cent when compared with the number of seedling trees set out during 1928," said the State forester. "If there is a similar increase during 1930, it will become necessary for the Virginia Forest Service to greatly increase the capacity of its nursery at the university.

"At the present time the number of trees applied for is greatly in excess of the number requested at similar times in previous years. Shipping of trees will begin in about a week. In the average season the last two weeks in March is the best time of the whole year for reforestation work.

"Trees are shipped in lots of not less than 100 of a kind. The charge for them is made very low in order to encourage the reforestation of lands that would otherwise be unproductive. Convenient application forms describing the trees and stating terms of distribution can be secured by any one who writes to the Virginia Forest Service, University, Va."

BARNARD WILL RUN FOR CONGRESS SEAT

INDORSEMENT IS SEEN

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 10.—Fuller Barnard, jr., prominent western Maryland Democrat and former State's attorney for Alleghany County, said today that he would be a candidate for the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District.

Barnard's candidacy has been rumored for some time and his announcement came as no surprise to party members in the county.

It was pointed out that the normal Republican majority in the district is considered as being 15,000. Of this figure 11,500 majority is concentrated in Alleghany County.

A 3,500 Republican majority in Garrett County represents the difference. The normal Democratic majority in Montgomery County is considered equal to the Republican majorities in Washington and Frederick Counties, the leaders said, consequently local leaders believe that since the bulk of the Republican majority in the district is in Alleghany County, an Alleghany County candidate stands the best chance of making sufficient inroads on the opposition majority, especially as the Republican candidate will probably be another Alleghany County man, Frederick N. Zihlman. Democratic leaders have not yet indorsed Mr. Barnard, but in view of their feeling that the candidate should be from this county, it is thought that their indorsement will soon be forthcoming.

Mr. Barnard's candidacy has considerable historical precedent. The three Democrats who have been elected from the district in recent years have all been from Alleghany County. These are the late William Walsh, the grandfather of one of the present party leaders; former Chief Judge William C. Walsh, William McKaig and David J. Lewis.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.

Phone Vienna 84.

The Fairfax Parent-Teacher Association met in the auditorium of the schoolhouse yesterday afternoon in regular monthly meeting. The meeting was opened with the reports of the presidents of the seven circles of the Knighthood of Youth which have been organized in the school during the last month. The reports showed that almost 150 young pages of the Knighthood are now waging war on their bad habits and endeavoring to build stronger characters.

Miss Elizabeth Poe, of the editorial staff of The Washington Post, which is sponsoring the Knighthood movement in this district, addressed the parents and teachers.

A reading contest was held between the pupils of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades and a blue ribbon was awarded by the Parent-Teacher Association to the winner in each grade. The winners were: Viola Hallman, fifth grade; Ella Denny, sixth grade; and Edith McKinney, seventh grade. The judges were Mrs. John W. Rust, Mrs. Emma J. Haight and Miss Mary Ambler. A similar contest will be held at the April meeting of the association for the pupils of the second, third and fourth grades.

Several selections were rendered by the Boys Harmonica Band of the Fairfax and Oakton Schools under the supervision of Mrs. Annie Robey Walker, music teacher of the county schools.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. James U. Kincheloe in the absence of the president. Miss Ludema Sayre.

Mrs. Kincheloe reported that the office of the State Parent-Teacher Association at Richmond had written to inquire about the Knighthood of Youth movement, as they were very interested in knowing more of the details and establishing circles in schools throughout the entire State.

The Falls Church Parent-Teacher Association asked the Fairfax Association to aid them in entertaining the district H teachers' meeting, which will be held in Falls Church on April 11 and 12. A committee consisting of Mrs. James E. Nickoll, Mrs. F. J. Swartz and Mrs. James U. Kincheloe was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

The association's executive committee will meet before the next meeting to decide whether or not it will purchase books for the school library or playground equipment. The treasurer was authorized to turn over the necessary amount, not to exceed $15, to Miss Mary Ambler, principal of the school, to purchase two basket balls and to help build a volley ball court. The association's activities are partly financed by the sale of copies of George Washington's will. The question of holding a dinner some time in April for the benefit of the association was discussed, but no action taken at this time.

Representative Paul John Kvale, of Minnesota, will be the principal speaker tonight at the meeting of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce which meets in the Dunham Hall at Lewinsville near McLean. The officers of the McLean school and civic league and the McLean Volunteer Fire Department will act as the entertainment committee. These two organizations are the hosts for tonight's meeting. This meeting will be open to the general public, and several questions relative to the welfare of Fairfax County will be discussed.

Lester Thomas, 20, of Fairfax Station was arrested by Sheriff Kirby and charged with being drunk and in possession of intoxicating liquor. He was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman at Fairfax and ordered held for action of the grand jury.

TOWN IS DEFENDANT IN OFFICE RENT SUIT

Colmar Manor Case Argued Before Judge Sheriff in Hyattsville.

SCHOOL RECORDS CITED

Hearing in the suit against the town of Colmar Manor for office rent by Charles W. Bartelmes was held yesterday in Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County Police Court before Judge J. Chew Sheriff. The judge took the evidence under consideration at the close of the hearing.

Mr. Bartelmes is suing the town for the sum of $146.05, which he alleges to be the balance due him from the period beginning June 18, 1927, and ending June 25, 1929, for rental of an office which was used by the mayor and town council. He was represented by Attorney Bird W. Dolby.

Corporation Counsel John N. Torvestad, of Colmar Manor, argued that the rental was for the office of former Mayor John S. White and that the agreement was made with Mr. White and not with Mr. Bartelmes. He charged that the office had not been open for the use of the town clerk and treasurer except when Mr. White was present to open the doors, and argued that the plaintiff should go to Mr. White for his money.

Attorney Dolby contended that the town had paid $225 of the money and charged that the refusal to pay the rent was an attempt at "mud slinging" by the present administration which successfully opposed the White regime at the last town election.

The Prince Georges County Board of Education will meet today at its office in Upper Marlboro to consider the annual school budget for 1930-1931 and other school business.

The chief difficulty in preparing the budget has been the question of free transportation of high school pupils, but this feature has been eliminated by the decision to continue charging half of the cost to such pupils for the present. It is expected that the budget will be completed today.

Seat Pleasant, two-teacher school, led the schools of the county in attendance for February, it was revealed yesterday in the report of Miss Katherine Shears, attendance officer.
